EDITORIAL BRIEFS.

SENATOR CAMERON won't speak to Representative Bayne.

THE small fruit crop will be plenty large enough to keep the small boy busy with the usual supply of gripes.

THERE is a call from the West for the coinage of half-cent pieces. This must be the voice of William H. English.

THE business men of New York boomed Arthur about the time they precipitated a panic on the country.

THERE is considerable that is Fish-y in the statements made by the members of the defunct Grant & Ward firm.

THERE is hope that if the English Government continues its present energetic measures, it may get its expedition to Khartoum in time to locate the graves of Gorden and his men.

HEWITT'S tariff bill, shorn of the tariff features, will probably receive favorable consideration in the House. In its accepted form it will be rather like the play of "Hamlet, with the titular character omitted.

THE Pennsylvania delegation to the Democratic national convention will be solid for Samuel J. Randall unless Samuel J. Tilden is a candidate. Much as they love Randall they cannot go back on the sphinx of Gramercy park.

DESPITE the continued importation of foreign goods to an extent almost equaling that of last year, the rate of money has advanced enough not only to check summarily the shipment of gold, but to turn the current in this direction.

THE Mexican government wants to borrow $30,000,000. With a debt of about twice that amount, on which payment has defaulted, and with two or three healthy revolutions under way, some difficulty is likely to be experienced in effecting the loan.

THE Philadelphia postoffice is the only one of its class at which the sale of stamps has realized more since the reduction of postage went into force than it had done before. This statement is made on authority of Third Assistant Postmaster General Hazen.

THE late George Lear was a fine example of a self-made man. His origin was humble and he was poor. But he managed to educate himself and to become a useful and prosperous citizen, and maintained in the world of politics, business and society an honorable position.

THE democrats of the national house of representatives have turned Mr. McKinley, of Obio, out of the seat to which he was fairly elected. Thus the free traders have got even with Mr. McKinley for his great services to the cause of protection. Next fall the people will get even with the free traders.

THE most popular presidential candidate in each of the two great parties this year is a man who, so far as is known, is not seeking the office. This is an encouraging sign. If Blaine shall be nominated by the Republicans and Tilden by the Democrats—and Tilden has the necessary health to take part in the campaign—we freely admit that the contest will be an exciting one. Tilden is the only Democrat (always excepting John Smith) who can awaken the slightest enthusiasm.

Ingersoll, the Bold Infidel.

When we refer to Ingersoll, the bold infidel, it is with feelings akin to those with which we would refer to a murderer. Ingersoll's crime of wrecking poor, weak souls is worse than the crime of destroying human life. The murderer is actuated by a variety of selfish ends—love, revenge, hatred, desire for gold, &c.,—all equally potent. Ingersoll has only one of these—the desire for gold—to actuate him. For his crime Ingersoll deserves incarceration in a dungeon or to be hung higher than Haman. That 3,000 can listen for two hours to the flippant, blasphemous words that fall from his lips and applaud the most irreverent is a severe reflection on the intelligence, morality and honesty of the people of Philadelphia. But this is what newspapers say they did on Friday evening, May 23.

Ingersoll is well named and should be pronounced Injure-soul. We would hail the teachings of the Mormons, the Mohammedans or the Buddhists rather than those of Ingersoll. These teach have a religion, the universal acceptance of which they believe will be beneficial to the human family. Ingersoll, in vainly attempting to pull down the Christian faith, has not even this laudable ambition to spur him on. We do not—cannot believe—that he is consistent. All he desires is the notoriety which his boldness gives him and the ability to make a few hundred dollars for each lecture delivered. He has thus far been permitted to utter his bold blasphemies without punishment from either the Creator or man, but we shall not be at all surprised to be informed by telegraph at any moment that in one of his outbursts of railings the finger of God has palsied his tongue.

What recompense can Ingersoll have in his attempts to break down the truth which is so well established, so divinely constructed, perfectly planned? A faith that has brought comfort and consolation to the weary and heart-broken so often. A faith which has prevented crime, given impetus to charity, spread science, encouraged education and wrought manifold blessings? Surely the most condign punishment reserved for the souls of the wicked will be his unless he repents.

The God he attacks is all-wise, all-powerful—none dare question His motives or doubt His word. It is like a frog at the base of a mountain commanding the mountain to remove from its path or take the alternative of being crushed by the frog. The faith he derides teaches a man to be pure and upright, to live by faith and in the hope of a blessed immortality, to love all—even his enemies—such an exhibition of love as is not contained in any other faith, nor was ever dreamed of by the philosophers. The Gospel story he doubts is the narration of remarkable events, given by many witnesses in a straightforward, natural manner, the very design of which shows there was no intention to deceive and in which no discrepancy can be found. The book he belittles is, aside from its undoubted inspiration, the wisest record of the ages, the concentration of all knowledge and experience, a valuable compendium of lessons for humanity. Parts of it written thousands of years ago and all completed many hundred years since, it is ahead of the most modern researches of science. So wonderful is the book and so far above us are the beneficent plans which it works out for human-kind that we are compelled to believe that every word, thought and record in it is the the work of inspiration. We do not believe that any thoughtful, earnest study of it will produce the frame of mind which Ingersoll exhibits and in his case as well as in all others of like nature we must attribute it to ignorance of the Bible or to wilful misrepresentation.

But what of those 3,000 people who cheered the eloquent infidel? It can be said of them as of those who crucified Christ that "they know not what they do." It is their duty and the duty of all to know of these things and ignorance of law will not excuse at the bar of heaven any more than it will at the bar of earth's justice. If there are people who choose to listen to revilings of all that is good and excellent, let them listen. To attempt their reformation is like casting pearls before swine. But will not polite society ostracise them? And if they so ardently desire the shades of hades as to enter it here on earth, will they not please remove their contaminating influences to a place where others need not be offended by them? We are not in favor of man's retribution on these deluded people; heaven's retribution will come soon enough.

THE movement in Berlin to restrict the time for piano playing to the hours between 11 and 12 in the morning, and between 8 and 11 in the evening, says the Philadelphia Press, is a novel one. If it can be established that piano playing causes suffering, increases disease, depreciates the value of real estate, and has become an intolerable nuisance, as the petitioners to the court assert, it is not improbable that the hours for practicing may be limited by law as in Philadelphia the hours are fixed in which pavements may be washed, and as the ringing of church bells and chimes has been regulated. The inventor of some appliance by which the sense of hearing may be temporarily interrupted, will confer a benefit to mankind. It is possible to close the eyes to unpleasant sights or to walk out of the atmosphere of unpleasant odors. We need not touch the red hot stove, but how can we escape disagreeable sounds. We cannot even agree as to what sounds are disagreeable. The drum which gives delight to the boy causes agony to the grown person whose nerves are unstrung. Every piano must cause much discomfort before giving even a little pleasure. The occupant of the second story front wishes to sleep while the musician is practicing. Who is to arbitrate between them? Until sounds can be switched on and off like telephone communication, the only relief is for legal authorities to regulate the hours within which pianos may be played.

IT is admitted in New York, says the Williamsport Gazette and Bulletin, that during the race of the Arizona, the Aurania and the Austral from Queenstown to New York last week two of the rivals were driven at a high rate of speed in a fog, and to save distance a route running through the iceberg belt was chosen for at least one of them. It is true that there is a "craze" for fast steamships, and that the swiftest ships almost always have all the passengers and freight they can carry, but nevertheless it is folly for their owners to take the risk of collisions for the sake of winning a race across the Atlantic. Unless the warning against racing in fogs and in icebergs is heeded we may expect disasters more terrible than any of recent occurrence. It is wise to build as swift ships as possible, and in favorable circumstances to exhibit their speed to the world, but people who travel upon the ocean wish to know that they will not be recklessly exposed to danger. Sagacious steamship managers will secure as swift ships as they can, but direct their masters to take no risks of fog and ice for the sake of time in driving them. Fast ships by a safe course should be the aim.

LOOK out for another squeal about the wickedness of protection. American clocks and watches are crowding those of English manufacture out of their own markets. A commission has been appointed to ascertain and report why. They will doubtless blame the American tariff for it, and then our patriotic Democratic papers will raise another ballahoo over the wickedness of the corrupt, cruel, monopolizing, protective tariff, that does not protect, and demand that this restriction upon trade shall be removed instanter.

MANY of our exchanges seem to take great delight in pitching into Ferdinand Ward.

State and National Banks.

It is fortunate for the country, in view of the recent financial developments, remarks the Pittsburg Commercial Gazette, that we have a National instead of a State currency. The people who have nothing in the shape of money except a few National bank notes or greenbacks—and this is the condition of the masses—can rely with the utmost confidence on the value of what little they have. Under the State banking system, in times of financial distress or panic, there was no telling how long a bank was going to hold out, and the notes of nearly all of them were at a discount. As a consequence, noteholders ran to the brokers' offices to get their bills exchanged for coin, or for the notes of banks in which they had greater confidence, and were compelled to pay heavy discounts. All this has been changed by the National banking system. The "promises" of the United States are accepted universally in preference to gold, and no one gives himself the slightest concern as to what he may chance to have in his pocketbook. He has no need for a daily bulletin to inform him as to the rate of discount on the notes of the leading banks, and is not startled at the announcement of "another bank failure." Thanks to a "paternal" Government the noteholders have been made absolutely secure.

There are defects in the National banking system which ought to be remedied. There ought to be a check put to the practice of appropriating the funds of a bank for private purposes. The great curse of the day is speculation—reckless at[illegible] by making large sums on mere chance—and when a bank officer is seized with this mania he will not scruple to misapply the funds in his custody in order to satisfy his inordinate greed. Bank directors are prone to let these bold and aggressive spirits have their own way; the more privileges they get the more they take, and the end is wreck and ruin.

Mr. Hewitt has introduced a bill into the House making it a misdemeanor for any president, cashier, teller, director or other officer of a National bank to procure, for his own benefit or the benefit of any company or association of which he is a member, any loan of money from the bank of which he is an officer. There ought to be some law whereby depositors and stockholders can be protected against the "gutting" of banks by those who have the control of the funds. Bank officers who use the money of depositors in private sepeculations ought to be sent to the Penitentiary as embezzlers.

FREE traders who demand reductions on "raw materials" should read the address of the Wool Growers on that subject. Here is one of its paragraphs: "You have doubtless, gentlemen, heard much of late touching the soundness of the policy of putting 'raw materials of manufacturers,' including wool, on the free list. We trust you will resent such propositions, whenever and wherever made, with the indignation which they greatly merit. Wool is the finished product of a million flockowners, who have by years of intelligent and patient labor and the expenditure of large sums of money brought their product to its present high standard of excellence." The same argument applies to many other so-called "raw materials." Nearly all are as much the product of labor as the finished goods.

OUR Chicago dispatches point to a very strong probability of Mr. Blaine's nomination. The Pennsylvania delegation is enthusiastic in his support. President Arthur's Southern strength is breaking up, the Edmunds boomlet is dwindling to nothingness and the general current is setting in strong for James G. Blaine.

Memorial Day.

While in many parts of this State and in other States Memorial Day was not so solemnly or enthusiastically observed this year as on former occasions, in Centre county its observance was so general and spontaneous as to cause surprise. In Bellefonte the day was fine and the attendance far exceeded that of any former similar occasion. Indeed, the crowd of people was so large that it was impossible to see and hear half that was occurring. Those beautiful floral gifts, which are such appropriate emblems of affection for the soldier dead, were profusely strewn on the graves. The supply was almost endless and they were used with lavish freedom.

But the ceremonies in Bellefonte constituted only a small part of Centre county's observance. In every borough, village and hamlet the day was observed by the faithful, patriotic men and women who remember the sad scenes and sacrifices of the great Rebellion. With loving hands and hearts and tender affection they go through the city of dead and pause at each soldier's grave, though it be marked by a marble monument or is only an elevation of earth, and decorate all graves alike with these fair tokens. The deed is sublime and those who perform it are richly repaid for their trouble. Throughout the county it was the same. Women worked the flowers into beautiful wreaths and crosses, men marched to the graveyard, praises of our country were sung, eloquent words were uttered, the loving tokens were carefully placed [illegible] the graves and all was [illegible] Philipsburg, Howard, Unionville, Milesburg, Farmers Mills and all places where soldiers lie dead send in the same report of the day's careful observance, and we are glad it is so.

IT is now given out that the Democratic leaders in the house have determined upon an adjournment by July 1, regardless of what business may not be reached by that time. That a great many bills, including a number of important ones, must go undetermined, or even unconsidered, in case of an adjournment at the date proposed is manifestly certain. Every committee has in its hands some measures of more than usual importance, which ought to be acted upon, but which certainly will not be within such a period. But perhaps the country can afford to let them all fail in consideration of the general relief that will be afforded by the adjournment of a body so notoriously neither useful nor ornamental.

THE original Duke of Marlborough did not rank among the saints of his day, and his successor of to-day has not yet been translated to the army of the just. There has been heretofore a feeling of respect for the family which has led them through successive generations to maintain its dignity and preserve its heirlooms. The present Duke, however, either through greater lack of veneration or want of money, seems ready to let it all go by the run, if he can get a million or two of dollars, and proposes to sell the picture gallery to the Government. They hesitate at the price demanded, about one and three quarter millions. Vanderbilt, our millionaire, is over there, and it would not surprise us if he should come home with Marlborough pictures under his arm.

THE results of the recent cold wave threaten to be serious. The tobacco crop of Lancaster and York counties and the fruit crop of Eastern Pennsylvania are probably seriously injured. A cold wave which makes ice in Southern Pennsylvania is a serious menace to the peach crop of Delaware. If the first reports were not usually worse than the actual condition of things, the outlook would be a very gloomy one. The higher prices which follow smaller crops fall to a fortunate few.

GENERAL NOTES.

The Brooklyn bridge is to be painted.

Seven counties in Southeast Alabama have no railroad.

The saving banks of New York State hold over $430,000,000.

Mississippi has a capital of $1,500,000 invested in cotton mills.

Forty million acres in Texas are devoted to educational purposes.

Chicago's live stock interests represent an annual business of $210,000,000.

During the past decade there has been an average of 395 hotel fires yearly.

The royal ponceana, the famous Key West flowering tree, is beginning to bloom.

People in Norwich, Conn., are contemplating the establishment of a crematory there.

Dr. Herman Kerr, a celebrated statistician, says that the annual mortality from intemperance in Great Britain is 40,000.

Charles Twitchell, Chauncey Caswell and Morris Caswell were drowned at Crogan, New York, by the capsizing of a raft.

On account of the depressed condition of the cotton goods trade the mills at Augusta, Ga., are cutting wages and time work.

The Kennebec Journal authoratively denies that Senators Hale and Frye are opposed to Blaine's nomination for the Presidency.

A clothing-house war in Buffalo has been waged so fiercely, that on Monday last one firm began making suits to order for $1 each.

There is one cattle ranche in Texas which contains 25,000 acres more than the entire State of Rhode Island contains in territory.

President Arthur and a distinguished party visited the Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md. on Monday, returning to Washington at night.

A paper read before the Forestry Congress estimated the cost of the railroad ties used in the United States every seven years at $14,780,000.

Berkshire, N. Y., a town of 1800 inhabitants, buried, a short time ago, at the age of 78, the only shoemaker it has had for the past fifty years.

Mrs. U. S. Grant has sold her house in Washing City, which was in her hand, to John R. McLean, editor of the Cincinnati Inquirer, for $6,500.

Wisconsin's dairy products amounted last year to $19,500,000. There are in the State 1000 creameries and cheese factories, and 500,000 cows.

[illegible] from Louisville removing their headquarters to St. Louis has been filed at Louisville by G. W. McReady.

Fishermen say that this is a great fish year. All kinds of fish are uncommonly early in putting in an appearance, and they are big in size and very abundant.

A Boston fisherman tells about catching eight trout in Lake Winnepiseogee that weighed seventy-four pounds, the largest one weighing fourteen pounds.

Mr. J. E. Hall, of Marietta, O., 91 years old, is said to have built the first wharf on the Ohio river, and his son is married to a great great-granddaughter of Martha Washington.

Pittsburg, Pa., has 1380 manufacturing establishments, with an aggregate capital of $106,000,000, employing nearly 86,000 persons. The annual product is valued at $146,000,000.

At Lexington, Ky., R. B. Tracy was fined $500 for publishing a slanderous card about Circuit Judge Morton. Three newspapers which printed the card are under indictment.

The first church erected on American soil is still used as a place of divine worship. It is situate just outside of the City of Mexico, and was built by Cortez during his second visit to that coast.

The Fairfield, Me., village corporation has voted to go back to local time, and the saw mills and other industries employing 500 men will make the same change, having experienced much inconvenience from running on standard time.

It is to be hoped that Connecticut morality is not gauged by the sentence to jail for thirty days, with $1 fine, of a man who abandoned his wife, eloped with a married woman, and appropriated the funds of a Good Templars' lodge, of which he was treasurer.

An old bay fisherman says that lobsters in New York Bay and financial panics throughout the country always come together once in seven years. He has watched the coincidence for more than thirty years, and declares that it never fails. This is lobster year.

An extraordinary invention is now being exhibited by a Mr. Fergusen, in Lombart St., London. He claims to produce light and electricity from chemicals which, after being used, are worth £5 per ton more than in their original state. The principal materials used are costic, soda and zinc.

One very interesting feature of the programme of the Health Exhibition, now being held in London, will be found in the plan—not yet fully matured—for an international congress or series of conferences to be held in connection with the exhibition during the first week in August.

At Goshen, Ind., two boys, Hoefner and Bartholomew, aged about 13, were playing in a flouring mill, when Hoefner was caught by a shaft making 180 revolutions per minute, whirled around and one arm torn from its socket and his body thrown eighteen feet. Bartholomew was struck by Hoefner's feet while revolving and his face badly crushed.

France has lost one of her most illustrious chemists, M. Charles Adolph Wurtz, for a time a pupil of the famous Leibig and a successor in the chair of Orfila and J. B. Dumas at the Faculte de Medicine of Paris. He was an Alsatian by birth, and died suddenly at the ripe age of 77. He worked mostly in poisons, and his discoveries in the compound ammoniacs were of the highest importance. The French students of chemistry considered him as the brightest representative of the glories of Lavoisier, Gay-Lussac and Berthelot.

Poetry.

FOR DECORATION DAY.

BY MRS. MARTHA WINTERMUTH.

FOR GOD.

She had culled her white carnations
And pansies and rosies bright,
All dripping with dewy tear-drops
And gleaming in the light.

Then the bleeding heart and the lily,
She wreathed in the chaplet, and thought,
Of the hearts of our honored soldiers;
Of the costly peace they bought:

She thought of the hands so valiant
Close folded upon each breast;
Of the camp's lone Sabbath's stillness
And the tent's long day of rest.

The crystal gates of the morning,
Broke wide o'er a world of bloom;
And she stood in a moment's vision.
Of that rapturous heavenly home.

Then in awe and delight her spirit
Pressed on, in the stillness of love;
As she whispered, "This day is God's day,
These moments drop down from above."

AND HOME.

Then she opened her soul as a garden,
That the sunlight, and beauty and bloom,
Might waken the hearts of her loved ones;
His spirit pervade and perfume.

Then the rosy lips of childhood,
And the lines pure of love,
Bloomed in her earthly Eden,
With a fragrance born above.

No flowers so full of meaning
On that Decoration morn,
As the white thoughts of God's glory,
In the souls of her children born.

His angel with golden trumpet,
Seemed treading the buoyant air;
She whispered, "This home is God's home,
This, a hallowed house of prayer."

AND NATIVE LAND.

Then the freshly clustering garlands
And the fluttering flag on the breeze,
And the measured march of the veterans
Brought other thoughts than these:

She prayed as the people marshalled,
At the stirring beat of the drums,
For her Native Land beloved,
With its thousand, thousand homes.

Though a shadow swept her thresholds,
And a moment of trembling fear,
She whispered, "This land is God's land,
And His arm of might is near."

Then she gave her pure flowers praying,
All lands His mercy may share,
Till the white badge of "Our Union,"
The nations in triumph shall wear.

Newark, O., May 1884.

LEAP YEAR.

Nice room,
Easy chair,
Old bach
Sitting there.
Old bach
Begins to snore,
Gentle rap
At the door.
Enter maid
Rather old,
With a look of
Love untold.
Converse a while,
This and that,
Close by him
Old maid sat.
Soon she talked
Sentimental,
He didn't care
Continental.
She got mad,
Began to cry
Other tactics
Tho't she'd try.
"Years you've called
Every night,
As if you had
Perfect right.
Why you came
Lord only knows
Never once
Did you propose.
Now 'tis Leap Year,
By Heavens above.
I shall tell you
Of my love."
Then there was
An awful crash,
He had leaped
Through the sash.
Funeral next day
At eleven,
Old bach
Safe in Heaven.

Our Story Teller.

Jennie's Mission.

"O, this dull round of small duties, how tired I am of them all, how I wish some grand mission in life would come to me!"

Jennie Orson, the pretty little school-mistress, leaned her chin upon her hand as she mused in the above manner, and gazed out over the gray spring fields, whose dreary ploughed furrows were thrusting their ragged faces up through the rapidly disappearing snow-drifts.

"Why, how the snow has gone today," she added mentally, as the changed appearance of the fields struck her eye. It was the last day of March, and all winter long the snow had been heaped in miniature mountain ranges by the roadside and on the fields and meadows. During the last week, warm weather had set in, making rapid inroads upon snow and ice.

The children came running under the window where Jennie stood, playing at "Round the House." Then they flocked off together toward the brook that rippled by the school house, a few rods distant. Jennie watched them absently. Her mind was not upon her duties that day. Her plodding round in a country school room seemed very dull and mean to her. She sighed for some great and lofty mission.

"If I could do some one great act, heroic and noble," she said to herself, "I would be willing to die then. What is life worth if we must plod on forever like this? I am no more than an ant, or a spider, or a squirrel, with the life I live! How gladly would I give up the monotony of years of this routine for one hour of sacrifice, heroism and then welcome death."

How she hated her homely life as she looked back over its nineteen uneventful years. She had always lived in this dull country place, even since she was a wee child and her parents had emigrated to the West. She had received her education in this same little school house, attended divine services there also—as the place boasted no church edifice—and her only knowledge of the world beyond was obtained by a yearly visit to the city, fifty miles distant, where the family supplies were purchased, and from a few books and newspapers. Now she was very tired of it all—tired of her dull past, her duller present, her doubtlessly dull future. Even the thought of her fond, true lover, Jack Kellog, who was building the house where she was to reign mistress, annoyed her to-day. How poor and monotonous life stretched before her. How much better to perform one grand act and die, than to live on to old age in this dreamy fashion. It was a very romantic girl who stood there in the little school room dreaming her discontented dreams, you see.

Suddenly she saw by the noon mark that it was time to call in her scholars. She had no bell—for this was in the early days of Wisconsin history, before the railroads had spread their great iron spider webs all over the state, and Jennie's school was conducted on a very primitive plan. She took the great ruler, with which she inflicted punishment on the palms of unruly boys, and rapped loudly on the window. Then she sat down and waited for the pupils to come trooping in—not with the regulation and order which govern school rooms in these days, but helter skelter, hurry skurry, laughing, pushing each other and playing "tag" to their very benches.

"O, teacher, the creek is getting awful high," said Tommy Smith, as he plunged into his seat. And Jennie did not correct him for the improper use of "awful," which proved to be more appropriate in this case than teacher or pupil supposed.

"I suppose the snows are all melting and running into it," she answered, absently, as she took her place at her desk, and by another tap of the ruler indicated that the afternoon session of school was now in order.

Then she ran her eye over the room to see that no pupils were missing.

"Where is Tod Brown?" she asked, "I do not see him here."

Tod was the smallest child in school; a little boy scarcely five years old who was placed in her charge, not so much to learn his primer, as to keep him out of his mother's way. She was burdened with two smaller than he besides a babe in the cradle.

"I left Tod down by the creek," answered Tommy Smith, "playin' throw pebbles into the water. I told him school was called."

"You should have brought him along, Tod is only a child," Jennie said reprovingly. "But go and bring him now; and hurry for your lesson in arithmetic comes on directly."

Tommy came back in a brief space of time, white and frightened.

"Tod is stannin' on a stone and cryin', and the water is all around him," he said. "I couldn't get near him at all."

The whole school rose en masse, and Jennie at the head of the small army led on to the rescue of Tod.

Yes, there he stood on a stone which a little time before had been on the shore, but now alas! was in the midst of the rapid swelling stream, beyond the reach of any one in that little group.

"Mamma! mamma!" he called in piteous tones, "come and take Tod. Tod is 'fraid. Come, mamma, come!"

Jennie looked over her little flock Not one of them was large enough to wade out and rescue Tod. The only boy in her school that might safely have attempted this had remained at home that day to assist his father.

The water was rising higher every moment. What was to be done must be done quickly, or the angry waves would seize poor little Tod and sweep him away down the swelling stream.

"John," cried Jennie, speaking to the largest boy in the flock, "you stand here on the bank, while I wade out to Tod. I shall want you to take him from my arms as soon as I have him safe. Some of the large girls must hold fast to your coat, so that you do not fall into the stream."

Then Jennie drew her skirts close about her slight figure and plunged bravely into the cold waters, sinking almost to her waist at the first step.

Slowly, slowly, she made her way toward the crying child, the waves rushing up higher over his feet every moment.

The little flock on the shore huddled together like frightened lambs, watching their teacher with wide, distended eyes and sobbing out their fears and terror, as she slowly forced her way against the waves.

Another effort, another plunge and she had him in her arms. Then she tried to make her way back to shore, but the waters were growing more furious every moment, as if angered at the loss of their prey. They almost swept her from her feet—they dashed above her shoulder, and her little burden screamed and struggled with terror, making her task ten-fold more difficult.

"Just another step, teacher, and I'll catch hold of him," cried John from the shore, reaching out almost his whole length over the waters, while two sobbing girls held fast to the skirts of his coat.

It was an exciting scene, a wild moment of suspense. Jennie's face was white as chisled marble; her long black hair had fallen from its fastenings and floated back over the billows like a dark mantel; her eyes were large with fear, her mouth drawn with pain, and her slender form swayed as if her strength were well nigh exhausted.

With one last mighty effort she laid her burden in John's outstretched arms.

Tod was saved!

A wild shout of joy and triumph rose from the excited band on shore, and they flocked about the prostrate form of the almost inanimate child.

Just then a great wave swept down upon Jennie, lifted her from her feet, just as she was about to grasp the shore, and bore her rapidly down the stream like a light piece of driftwood.

As she was whirled away the whole events of her past life arose before her; that life, which only an hour before seemed so poor, and mean and dull to her. Ah, now how precious and bright—and beautiful it became! She remembered her rash wish, that she might be given some one heroic act to perform—and then die. That act had been granted her almost instantly, and she had performed it heroically. But now must she carry out the remainder of her thought, and die? Oh, death was so dark—so cold; the unknown seemed so terrible; she was so young, and life was so sweet!

She thought of Jack, her lover, and the half completed house. Life with him there, that an hour before had seemed a dreary, monotonous waste, shone upon her like the departing shores of some lost paradise. Oh, to see his dear eyes smiling fondly upon her, once more to hear his voice; life, youth, love, how precious they all were.

Then all grew blank. "Jack, Jack, I am so cold. O, God! save me—pity—forgive," she cried, and then sank away into unconsciousness.

Two miles below the school house they found her tossed on shore with a mass of drift wood. Quite dead they pronounced her at first, and the old village doctor confirmed the assertion.

But Jack Kellog would not listen to any of them. "She is not dead," he cried. "How dare you tell me such a thing. She is alive, and will look up and smile in my face before the day passes."

They shook their heads and thought the poor boy had gone mad, as he set to work over her. But they all lent a helping hand, and and every restorative known to them was applied to the pallid figure of the young girl. It was hours before they saw any signs of returning life. Then she drew a deep, quivering sigh, opened her eyes and smiled, even as Jack had said she would, into his loving face bent anxiously over her.

"Is this heaven?" she asked in a whisper. "I thought I had died."

"You went out clear to the very threshold of death," Jack answered, as he clasped in his arms, "but love was strong enough to bring you back.—Ella Wheeler, in the Wisconsin.

Summer Hats.

Some years ago fashion ordained that gentlemen should wear none but black hats all Summer. This was probably brought about by the "Anglomania" that prevailed at that time. Men imagined that because Englishmen wore black hats in London during July and August it was the proper thing to do here, and for a while one saw nothing but thin Summer suits, surmounted by hot looking, heavy black hats.

All that is changed now, and for several years past the foolish fashion has been dying out. High white and light Derby hats will this Summer be worn more than for some years past. The fashionable men even now be seen with sensible, seasonable looking, light colored hats adapted to the climate of the United States and not to that of England.

The extremely fashionable style for the high hat is the "English hat," such as one sees on all the race courses and at Summer resorts in England. It is much higher in crown than usual, but not so wide in brim, and is a marked stylish hat. The proper color is the "pearl," although a great many of what is known as "beaver" colors will be worn. A man never looks so well in Summer as when, in the cooler parts of the day, he appears in "full dress" for the season—a dark cutaway coat and vest and either dark gray or some neutral shade of trowsers, and a "high white hat." He is then properly and well dressed.

Instead of the black derby of bygone seasons one may now look for one of a pearl color in its place, and it is not only more fashionable but also more sensible in appearance.

A. J. Cassatt a Road Supervisor

Last year the people of Lower Merion township, Montgomery county, elected as a road supervisor Hon. A. J. Cassatt, vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, whose summer residence is in its border. It was done partly as a joke, as supervisor was considered about the least possible account, and some of his neighbors thought it a playful way to give Cassatt an office. To the surprise of all he "took out his papers" and presented himself for oath. Then began such a tearing down and digging up as that old country district never before witnessed. Tax collections were rigidly enforced, and those who were in the habit of working out their tax found that they had a business man to deal with. He exacted full work, permitted no slouching and every man who came to "work" had to put in ten solid hours at a dollar a day. He found himself without men, as farmers preferred to pay tax rather than to be "worked" that way. With this money in hand, he contracted at lower rates, and at this time of the year, the roads look like they never did before. Supervisor Cassatt made it hot for them, and showed what could be done in a year with real enterprise, grit and determination. He put Pennsylvania Railroad methods into the job, and astonished those who had been sleeping over the idea that shoveling the dirt into the middle of the road once a year was all that could be done.

The Go-Out-Between-Acts Fool.

Baltimore Herald.

Is there any fool more deserving of the condemnation and contempt of decent people than the fool who goes out of a theatre every time the curtain falls at the end of an act? Men who move in society where they are expected to acquire good manners if they have not inherited them, and who ordinarily conduct themselves with propriety seem to feel that the theatre is a place where they are at liberty to throw aside restraint and make of themselves as objectionable boors as their inclinations prompt them. They would never think of excusing themselves from an evening company in order to drink a glass of whisky at the most convenient saloon, and yet when they attend a theatrical performance they feel no scruples in leaving it as often as they are thirsty. Indeed, the promptness and regularity with which they take a walk at the end of an act makes it appear as if they were attached to a string which pulled them out of the door when the curtain dropped and by a reverse motion dragged them back to their seats when it rose again.

This pilgrimage to the bar-room might be condoned, even encouraged, if it involved damage or inconvenience to none but those who make it; but the chief objection to it is that those who remain seated and conduct themselves decently are sacrificed that these fools may air their ill breeding.

The man who is clown enough to go out between the acts to get a drink is idiot enough not to see that he would be conferring a favor on the theater-going public by securing a seat on the end of a row. If he did that he would attract but little attention, and to be looked at and talked about is his dearest ambition next to taking a drink. If he sneaked out quietly and disturbed no one, none would know that he went, and he would fail to acquire what he regards as indispensable to a thoroughbred—the reputation of being a "terribly fast fellow." So he gets a seat in the middle of a row, and as he crowds his way out he crushes ladies' dresses, steps on men's feet, kicks their hats, and all without saying so much as "Pardon me." When he comes back you have this ordeal to go over again, and it is repeated at each intermission.

This unmannerly practice will never be entirely rooted out, but it may be lessened by determined action on the part of gentlemen who want peace and comfort at the theatre for themselves and for those who accompany them. The fool who goes out between the acts goes out every time he gets an opportunity. It would be unreasonable to protest at the first offense, but a mild word the second would not be out of place. The third time it might be well to refuse to move so as to afford a thoroughfare. If the go out between the-acts idiot tries to climb over you, treat him as you would a man who deliberately crowded against you on the sidewalk. The audience will excuse the disturbance that this may create because they will understand that you are making it as a matter of principle, and if you are arrested and fined you will have the consolation of knowing that you got the worth of your money in satisfaction and that you are not the first martyr who has suffered persecution in a good cause.

There are more dangerous practices than going out between acts, but there are none more annoying and reprehensible. Only fools and vulgar cads offend in this way and if it could be done legally the best way of remedying the trouble would be to exterminate the class who make it.

No Kicker.

A young man was ushered into the parlor, where sat his adored one. She was gazing soulfully into the fire, thinking of him no doubt, but not dreaming of his presence. He tiptoed his approach, and slyly seizing a straggling hair which coyly nestled in its blonde beauty on the scruff of her round neck, gently twitched it, and waited for the sudden start and maidenly blush, a pleasant surprise. Again he drew it toward him, and again did the fair one continue to look into the fire. "Dear girl, she knows not of my presence," he murmured to himself. "How glad she will be to discover her Charles so close behind her! I will end this suspense," and gently lifting an auburn curl from the sloping shoulders, he tweaked as only a fond lover can tweak; and, gentle reader, you may believe us or not, but we hope to die if he didn't scalp her. The whole business came off and then she knew that Charlie was there. Shall we draw a veil over the dreadful picture? By no means. Charles knew that she wore false hair, and he knew that she knew that he knew it. Besides, the girl was turning thirty, and worth millions. Charles was poor, but dead in love. A poor young man, madly in love with a girl worth millions, is never a kicker.—Ex.

A thoroughbred Kentucky heifer named Lillie Dale ate a leaf of tobacco and then lay down and gasped away $700 worth of blooded stock into the invisible beyond. By and by fine bred cattle will learn to leave the food of godlike men alone. Next thing you know, the race horse will get to drinking whisky with the jockeys, and a nice set of brutes we will have.

"This is a novel turnout," said a book seller, as he dumped a lot of unsalable books of fiction into a ragman's cart.

Millions in Milk.

It requires 15,000,000 cows to supply the demand for milk and its products in this country, according to an essay read before the New York Farmers Milk Association. The capital invested in the dairying business is over $2,000,000,000. It requires the cultivation for over 60,000,000 acres of land to furnish food for the above number of cows. More than $200,000,000 are invested in dairy machinery and implements alone. The men employed 700,000, and 1,000,000 horses are necessary. The cows and horses consume annually 30,000,000 tons of hay, 90,000,000 bushels of cornmeal and the same amount of oatmeal, 275,000 bushels of oats, 2,000,000 bushels of bran and 30,000,000 bushels of corn, to say nothing of the brewery grains and questionable feed of various kinds that is used all over the country. It costs $168,000,000, or an average of $20 a month per capita. The annual yield of the average cow is placed at 450 gallons, making the total milk product 6,750,000,000 gallons a year. The farmers' receipts for this milk, averaging it at 12 cents a gallon, amount to $810,000,000. Cheese and butter use up 50 per cent. of the milk yield. To make a pound of cheese ten pounds of milk are required, and twenty-seven pounds of milk make one of butter. The comparative nutritive qualities of milk is as three and one-half pounds to one pound of prime beef. A fat steer furnishes 50 per cent. of boneless beef, but it would require about 24,000,000 steers, weighing 1,500 pounds each, to produce the same amount of nutrition as the 15,000,000 cows supply with their annual yield of milk.

Michael Murphy's Father's Christian Name.

Syracuse Journal.

At the beginning of a school term all pupils in the public schools are required to give their father's full name. The teacher asked Michael Murphy what his father name was, and Michael said:

"Mr. Murphy."

"What is his first name?"

"He never had but one name."

"Well, what would you call him if you wanted a new rocking horse?"

"I don't want one."

"When you speak to him what do you say?"

"Oh, I can't remember all I say when I speak to him."

"But, supposing he was out chopping wood and you went to the door and called to him, what would you say?"

"He never cuts up wood, but if I should call him, I would call him "dad."

"Oh, dear! I wish I could make you understand what I mean. Now, can't you tell me what you mother calls him?"

"Yes, 'um; she calls him 'old red head.'"

Chicago Reminds.

Chicago Journal.

"When the opera came to Chicago," said the head of "the retail" in a large dry goods house, "I noticed there were two or three expensive lace shawls sent home on approbation and returned the morning after the performance. This set me thinking, and when Mrs. B. came in the day of an opera night and asked to have one of the most expensive wraps sent home to look at, I just slipped out to old Swags, the ticket speculator, and bought seats immediately behind those of Mr. and Mrs. B. When I came in, a little late, there was Mrs. B. seated in front of me with the elegant lace wrap sent home in the morning over her shoulders. When she turned I greeted her politely, and said that I was delighted the wrap had suited her. She looked rather unhappy during the performance, but the shawl was not returned to the store, and I charged my opera ticket to expenses."

Correctly Answered.

One of the members of a school committee undertook to sharpen up the wits of the boys, by propounding the following question:

"If I had a mince pie, and should give two-twelfths to John, two-twelfths to Isaac, two-twelfths to Harry, and should keep half of the pie for myself, what would there be left?"

There was a profound study among the boys, but finally one lad held up his hand, as a signal that he was ready to answer.

"Well, sir, what would there be left? Speak up loud, so that all can hear," said the committee man.

"The plate!" shouted the hopeful fellow.

The committeeman turned red in the face, while the other members roared aloud.

Longevity and Habitual Drinking

The distinguished Dr. Lander Brunton, whose table of life probabilities commands the closest attention of the insurance companies, thinks the habitual use of wine, beer or spirits tends to shorten men's days on earth. He gives the following table of comparative mortality:

An Habitual Drinker's Chance of Living.

At 20	15.6 years.
At 30	13.8 "
At 40	11.6 "
At 50	10·8 "
At 60	8.9 "

An Abstainer's Chance of Living.

At 20	44.7 years.
At 30	36.5 "
At 40	28.8 "
At 50	21.25 "
At 60	14.285 "

"Why do you shiver?" was the question put to a poor, little bootblack one raw morning last March. "That's the only way I can keep warm, sir," he answered, "unless—unless—" "Unless what?" "Unless you let me take some exercise on your shoes." He got the exercise, and a quarter, too.

All Sorts.

An onion resembles the tone of a ringing bell in that peal follows peal.

What the hungry fish said to the angler—"If your not busy drop me a line!"

"Father why don't you plant some straw in your garden?" "Why my son?" "So we can have some strawberries, don't you know!"

Small boy of seven years to small boy of nine: "Now, let me smoke." Small boy of nine shocked: "Why, you're too young to smoke!"

"Well, Jack, did you have a nice time at dancing school?" "Pretty good, only the teacher wouldn't give me a partner, and there were two or three empty girls all the time."

"Mary," said a mother to her daughter, "has Henry proposed yet?" "Not yet, ma, but I think he will before many days." "What makes you think so?" "Because he asked me if you expected to live with me if I married, and I told him no."

Fond Father: "Johnnie, Johnnie, why don't you keep your hands out of your pockets? How would I look going around with my hands stuck away down in my pockets?" Sagacious Son: "You would look, sir, as if you were going to give me a nickel."

Herr Most, the Socialist, is now breathing out threatenings and slaughterings in St. Louis. It is quite natural that after abiding in St. Louis a week or two the eminent German tramp should feel convinced that a good many people ought to die.—Chicago News.

Mr. W. M. Evarts when Secretary of State was invaded in the fastnesses of the Department by a visitor who, after staying for at least half an hour, observed: "But I am occupying your valuable time." The wily Secretary replied, "Oh! not at all; you know I am paid by the year."

The friends of popular government in Spain may fairly expect to carry out their programme in due season if the opportunism which appears to control their conduct now continues to be their guiding principle. They would like to have a Republic, of course, but recognizing the fact that its institution is at present impracticable, they are prudently willing to join hands with the constitution monarchists. Their plan, as defined by Senor Martos, is the application of Democratic principles to a monarchist form of government, and it is certain that if they can secure the substance they can afford to concede the show. In this way the country may, as it were, be moved towards Republicanism by easy stages.

A Hint to Our Local Grain Speculators.

Wall Street News.

A Brooklyn man hit wheat for a few thousand dollars last week, rushed around and rented a brown store front, and then sought the service of a furniture mover.

"I'll take it by the job and do the fair thing by you," replied the mover.

"Well, how fair?"

"I'll say fifty dollars for the two."

"What two?"

"Why, moving this week into the brownstone, and the moving, in about a month, from that into a cheap frame house in the suburbs! I always job the two moves together in the case of a grain speculator!"

A Very Small Man.

One of the smallest men in the United States lives at Cedar Key. His name is Abecham Livingston Sawyer. He is 22 years old, forty and one-half inches high, weighs thirty-nine pounds, and the captain he came over with from Key West says he can eat more than any two men in the State. The midget was born and raised in Key West. He is built in very perfect proportion, is very bright, and can make an eloquent speech, and has a clear, high voice, which sounds like a child's. He was at one time a reporter on the Key West Democrat. He has a sister who is just a quarter of an inch taller than he is, and is just 17 years old.

The Reading Statement.

PHILADELPHIA, May 26.—The statement of the business of the Philadelphia & Reading railroad company for April issued to-day shows the gross earnings to have been $400,937.52; expenses, $260,828.01; net earnings $140,105.51, an increase of $8,000.00 over the net earnings of March, and nearly $6,000.00 more than for April, 1863 Net earnings for the year to date, $4,008,586 against $36,686.72 for the corresponding period of last year. The statements for April includes the operations of the Jersey Central as follows: Gross receipts $971,866; working expenses, $505,260; net earnings, $466,666; rental, $514,643; loss for the month, $485.16, against a deficit of $272,311 for March, $180 68 for February, and $2,820.94 for January.

The Moravian Synod.

LANCASTER, May 27.—The Moravian Synod, at Lititz, to-day balloted for members of the Provincial Elders' Conference with the following result: Bishop E. De Schweinitz, of Bethlehem; Rev. Augustus Schultz, of Bethlehem, and Rev. E. Seibert, of Nazareth. Objection was subsequently made to the elegibility of Rev. Messrs. Schultz and Seibert, the one being the editor of a church paper, and the other principal of a church educational institution. The subject was discussed at length and then postponed. The remainder of the day's session was devoted to the consideration of reports of Committees on Home Missions and Church Government.

A TOUCH OF PITY.

Forth they set at early morn,
Happy in their hope,
Adown the path and through the corn,
And by a grassy slope;

Then o'er a stretch of clean sea-sand,
And reached a slippery pier;
And there the brother raised his hand,
And said, "We'll cast lines here."

And, oh, the tremor of her heart
And tackle straight he set!
She deemed her brother had more art
Than any angler yet.

And at each bite she felt a glow
Of pride, that made her speak
In louder tone; there came a flow
Of blood to either cheek.

At last a catch! the silvery sides
Came twinkling o'er the pier—
She shrieked with joy; but soon the tides
Of joy were changed to fear.

As full she looked upon the thing
That writhed before her eyes,
The heart felt for its suffering,
She burst in tears and sighs,

And all her day was clouded dim
With thoughts she could not speak;
The voice was low; she stood by him,
But pale was now her cheek.

Her first glimpse of the ill and pain
That haunts the world, that day
Disturbed her heart, and ne'er again
Will she so gladly play.

Ah, little maid, that mystery
O'ershadows all our work,
And unto many, as to thee,
Has turned the bright to dark.

A CLEAR CASE.

Auburn hair, inclined to curl,
Honest heart and winning smile;
Form to set the brain awhirl,
Lips that might a saint beguile;
That's the girl.

Taller than the maiden coy,
Truthful, fearless, handsome, strong,
Heart of gold without alloy,
Halting ne'er twixt right and wrong;
That's the boy.

Window panes festooned with rime,
Leafless trees and hillside bare
Town clock sounding midnight's chime,
Street lamps gleaming here and there;
That's the time.

Nestling at the mountain's base,
With its one long, quiet street
Clasped in winter's white embrace;
Quaint old village, prim and neat;
That's the place.

Truant arm and shy embrace,
Tender vows in willing ear,
Kisses on an upturned face,
Whispered "Yes, I love you, dear;"
That's the case.

Disappearance of an Organist.

CLEVELAND, May 25.—Prof. S. B. Whiteley, a leading musician of this city, has mysteriously disappeared. Mr. Whiteley was the organist at Trinity Episcopal Church, and was well known in musical circles throughout the country. He was the organist of the Holy Trinity Church, Brooklyn, N. Y., for eight years. Two weeks ago he drew $200 from the trustees of Trinity Church, the salaries of the remaining members of the choir, intending to pay them that evening. In addition to this money, he had on his person a gold watch and chain and a diamond pin, the two valued at about $400. His friends, hoping that he would turn up, delayed reporting his disappearance to the police until yesterday. Many are inclined to believe that he was waylaid and killed for the money and jewelry he was known to have on his person. Mr. Whiteley was an Englishman, about 45 years old. He was married, but his wife lives in England. He was considered one of the finest organists in the West.

Attorney General Lear's Funeral.

DOYLESTOWN, May 26.—The funeral of Ex-Attorney General Lear took place, from his late residence, at three o'clock this afternoon. The members of the Bucks county bar attended in a body, six of their number being selected as pall-bearers, Judge Harman Yerkes, Ex-Judge Richard Watson, George Ross, J. Monroe Shellenberger, Nathan C. James and Lewis B. Thompson. The funeral was largely attended. The services were conducted by the Revs. Howard T. Widdimers and William A. Pattens. Among the many gentlemen of prominence present were Ex Governor Hoyt, Ex-Governor Hartranft, Judge Edward Harvey, General Sickles, Colonel Boyd, I. N. Evans, Joseph E. Thropp and others.

Run on a Savings Bank.

BRIDGEPORT, May 26.—A Norwalk paper published on Friday a long article relative to the long and and steady run on one of the oldest banks in that town, which was intended as a joke, the article referring to a gravel bank in the village. The article was headed, "A Norwalk Bank in Trouble." Scores of excited depositors who read the article, or heard about it, rushed to the Norwalk Savings Bank and drew their deposits. The run continued during the day and between $25,000 and $30,000 was taken out before the joke became known.

THE GREAT DR. DIO LEWIS.

His Outspoken Opinion.

The very marked testimonials from College Professors, respectable Physicians, and other gentlemen of intelligence and character to the value of Warner's SAFE Cure, published in the editorial columns of our best newspapers, have greatly surprised me. Many of these gentlemen I know, and reading their testimony I was impelled to purchase some bottles of Warner's SAFE Cure and analyze it. Besides, I took some, swallowing three times the prescribed quantity. I am satisfied the medicine is not injurious, and will frankly add that if I found myself the victim of a serious kidney trouble I should use this preparation. The truth is, the medical profession stands dazed and helpless in the presence of more than one kidney malady, while the testimony of hundreds of intelligent and very reputable gentlemen hardly leaves room to doubt that Mr. H. H. Warner has fallen upon one of those happy discoveries which occasionally bring help to suffering humanity.

MANHOOD
How Lost, How Restored

Just published, a new edition of DR. CULVERWELL'S CELEBRATED ESSAY on the radical cure of SPERMATORRHŒA or Seminal Weakness, Involuntary Seminal Losses, IMPOTENCY, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc.; also, CONSUMPTION, EPILEPSY and FITS, induced by self-indulgence, or sexual extravagance, &c.

The celebrated author, in this admirable essay, clearly demonstrates from a thirty years' successful practice that the alarming consequences of self-abuse may be radically cured; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

Rupture

Relieved and cured by Dr J. A. SHERMAN'S method, without operation or the injury trusses inflict, or hindrance from labor, and with security from strangulation of which, according to statistics, over 50,000 died during the past year. No one is safe who has a rupture and depends upon a truss; both are a physical and mental taxation on kidneys, ladder and other organic diseases, which affect general health more than age or labor, besides affecting manhood and destroying all incentive to social pleasure. Patients from abroad can receive treatment and leave for home same day. Book with photographic likenesses of bad cases before and after cure, and indorsements by physicians, merchants and others who have been cured, mailed for 10 cts. Principal office 251 Broadway, N. How Watch Cases are Made.

In 1875, thirteen men comprised the entire working force used in the manufacture of the James Boss' Gold Watch Case. Now over five hundred are employed, and the number is constantly increasing. The reason of this increase is this: In the James Boss' Gold Watch Case all the metal in sight and subject to wear is solid gold, while the remainder, which only lends strength to the case, is of stronger metal than gold, giving gold where gold is needed, and strong, elastic metal where strength and elasticity are needed, a combination producing a watch case better than solid gold and at ONE-HALF the cost.

Over 200,000 of these cases have been sold, and every jeweler in the country can testify to their quality and merit.

LUDINGTON, MICH., Dec. 5, 1882.
E. W. Marsh, of the Democrat, bought a Jas. Boss' Gold Watch case 18 years ago, and carried it until a short time ago, when I purchased it, and sold it to a customer. The case showed no signs of wear, except that natural to any case, and I am satisfied can be safely guaranteed for at least ten years more. I have sold the James Boss' Gold Watch Case for many years, and the parties who bought the first ones are carrying them to-day, as well satisfied as though they had bought a solid gold case costing twice the money. I regard them as the only cases of this kind a jeweler should sell who desires to give his customers the worth of their money or values his reputation.
WM. J. CUSHWAY, Jeweler.

LATEST TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

Sunday in Chicago.

CHICAGO, June 1.—To-day was not prolific of results in the preliminary work of the coming convention. Delegates and workers seemed divided between a desire to talk politics and a wish to give due observance to Sunday. Colorado's full delegation arrived in a body this morning, openly declaring for Blaine. Maine's quota came in during an early hour and were met at the depot by the Californians and escorted to their headquarters. The remaining, though not the least worthy, contingent in interest of the Maine statesman to arrive during the day was that from Kansas. The entire delegation from that State came in during the morning. They were permitted to arrive without any half. The delegates declare that they will vote as a unit for Blaine. All but two of the Minnesota people report at their headquarters which are decorated with pictures of Blaine, Arthur and Edmunds, accompanied by the sentiment, "Minnesota solid for the nominee, but divided in her affections." The statement was made that the Edmunds men in her ranks had been soon won to the side of one of the other candidates, but they asserted their fealty by visiting the Vermont headquarters and openly declaring their intention to vote for Edmunds. "Keep your eye on Winconsin, Indiana and Michigan," remarked a member of the national committee to-day. "The strength of these three States is being claimed by at least three of the leaders, but the instructions of the delegations it is known are of a character which permit of great freedom of action, and their votes, if thrown in the interest of any one candidate, might carry with them victory." Senator Plumb and half of the Missouri delegation arrived to-day. The delegates from Nebraska, New Hampshire, New York, Vermont, Massachusetts and Rhode Island are also here. None of them, however, have been long enough on the ground to give any new opinion or key to the situation.

A prominent member of the Vermont delegtaion, however, who has been here two days, assured an Associate Press correspondent that Edmunds was fast gaining ground and would have at least one hundred votes on the first ballot. None of the delegations that arrived to-day has yet effected its organization, but it is expected that all of them will to-morrow.

Newspaper Men for Chicago.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—A party of sixty or more Washington newspaper men, representing leading journals in all parts of the country, left here for Chicago this morning in a special train, as the guests for the entire trip of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company. Their train consists of two sleepers and the Mann boudoir car "Adelina Patti." A dining car will be attached to the train to-morrow morning. The party dined to-day at Cumberland as the guests of the Baltimore and Ohio Telegraph Company, the train stopping an hour and a half for the purpose. The cars are to remain upon a siding in Chicago and to be at the service of such of the guests as prefer them to the crowded hotels. The return will be made to Washington after the convention. Major J. G. Pangborn, the assistant general ticket agent of the Baltimore and Ohio system, accompanies the train and has its arrangements in immediate charge.

Eleven Cowboys Drowned.

DENVER, June 1.—A big flood was caused by cloud burst at a cattle camp on Frenchmen creek, Thursday, and eleven cowboys were drowned. The water carried away everything in its path, men, horses, wagons, etc.

National Greenback Convention.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 28.—The National Greenback Convention assembled in the English Opera House at 11 o'clock this morning, and was called to order by Jesse Harper, of Illinois, Chairman of the National Committee. Hon. J. Tyler, of Florida, was elected temporary chairman; Cornelius Dowdy, of New York, secretaries.

All the States were represented except Delaware and Mississippi. South Carolina was represented by a Massachusetts proxy.

The ordinary business was transacted at the morning session.

There was appointed, as committee on credentials, one from each State. There was a contest from Maine—one set of delegates, headed by Solon Chase, anti-Butler, is the only one of importance. George O. Jones, of New York, attempted several times to get in a resolution favorable to the Chase delegation, but was not recognized by the chairman and was howled down by the convention. Adjourned to give the credential committee time to report.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 28.—Gen. Weaver was chosen President and briefly addressed the convention, after which a recess till 7:30 was taken. It was decided that no votes should be counted except those actually present. This is regarded as a triumph for Butler.

After hearing the report of the committee on resolutions a number of speeches were made, after which the convention adjourned until 9 a. m.

Buried in the Ruins.

BALTIMORE, May 30.—Soon after 2 o'clock this afternoon the weight of cotton stored in Hooper's building, No. 37 South Gay street, caused the structure to collapse. A lot of people were in and about the place at the time, and several were killed. Eight bodies have been recovered from the ruins so far.

The bodies of Mortimer H. Linthriam, cashier, a man named Kelley and a colored boy have been found. The latter has since been identified as J. C. Brown. In addition to these Edward Bowen, a colored porter, is in the wreck. William Corkrean, a clerk, was caught under the timbers, but was little injured. Messrs. Dugdale & Long, fertilizers, occupied the front offices on the second floor of the building, and Benjamin Greenwood, Gildea Hoke and Kenneth McLea, employes, are known to have been there when the crash came. Greenwood reached the window and was rescued without serious injury Hoke and McLea are still under the debris, the whole of which is filled with gas from the broken pipes. The building was supposed to be one of the most substantial in the city.

Mr. Blaine Didn't Say It.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Ex-Secretary Blaine, in an interview this morning, denied emphatically the truth of the statement sent to a New York journal, to the effect that Mr. Blaine has said, believing the Republican nominee for President, whoever he may be, will not be elected, that he wants no empty honor, and therefore will not accept the nomination. Mr. Blaine said the falsity of the dispatch is shown on its face, and that it is incumbent on the journal publishing it to produce the name of the gentleman to whom he is reported to have made this statement. He added further that he firmly believed "the nominee of the Republican Convention, whoever he may be, will certainly be elected."

Decoration Day at Washington.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—The weather this morning was cool, pleasant and bright and the streets before 10 o'clock were full of people in holiday attire on their way to cemeteries, steambeat wharves and places of popular resort in the suburbs. The departments were closed, flags were flying from all the larger buildings along Pennsylvania avenue. The various monuments of the city were decorated with flowers and festoons of evergreen and there was a general suspension of business. At the National cemetery, at Arlington, appropriate services were held and the graves of the country's dead were strewn with flowers. The Soldier's Home, Congressional cemetery, Oak Hill, Glenwood and other cemeteries were also visited.

Indians on the Rampage.

DENT'S LAKE Dak., June 1.—A gentleman just arrived from Turtle Mountain brings news that the Indians have formed a wide conspiracy, and are moving from all points to the Turtle Mountains. The Black Feet and Sioux are leaving the Upper Missouri for the mountains, and the Canadian Indians are coming.

The band of Little Shell have moved off their reservation, and are selling off the agricultural implements they had acquired. Every evidence indicates a general rising.

The situation has been made known privately to the authorities at Washington, and the Indian agent at Turtle Mountain has been ordered to report on the situation at once.

The Garfield Hospital Dedicated

WASHINGTON, May 30.—The Garfield Memorial Hospital in this city was formally dedicated to-day with appropriate ceremonies. Rev. Mr. Butler, of the Lutheran Memorial Church, officiated, and Justice Miller, of the Supreme Court, president of the Board of Directors of the hospital, delivered an address. A garden party and dancing, music and other entertainments followed the dedicatory services. The hospital will be open for patients in about two weeks. A resident physician and five nurses will comprise the hospital staff and there will be accommodations for forty patients.

Reading's Default.

PHILADELPHIA, June 1.—The directors of the Philadelphia Reading Railroad Company at a meeting held late to-night decided that owing to disappointment in receiving certain moneys they could not meet their June payments to-morrow. These payments are $703,465 interest on consolidated mortgage bonds and $280,000 in dividends on Jersey Central railroad stock. The company had hoped that by issuing wages scrip and notes for labor and supplies, that they could save enough of the funds in hand to meet the June payments. In this, however, they were mistaken, as they were called upon to made certain payments that they could not avoid. In the last extremity efforts were made to secure the money in this city, but up to 3 o'clock on Saturday afternoon this had failed. It is thought that the application for the receivership will be made to-day. The officers of the company state that the application for a receivership will be through friends of the corporation.

Failing to Elect a Bishop.

BALTIMORE, May 30.—In the Protestant Episcopal Convention this morning voting for a Bishop was resumed. The tenth ballot (nine having been taken yesterday) resulted in a count of 135 votes, of which the Rev. Dr. Hodges received 52 votes, the Rev. Dr. Eccleston 49, and the rest scattering. The Rev. Dr. Hodges then withdrew his name and the Rev. Dr. Leeds was renominated. On the eleventh ballot 137 votes were cast, Dr. Leeds receiving 75, and Dr. Eccleston 41, the rest scattering. The twelfth and thirteenth ballots were also without result, and it was then resolved to cease voting during the session of the Convention. The second Wednesday of October was appointed for a special meeting of the body, and the Convention adjourned to that date.

Republican Forces Rallying.

CHICAGO, May 30.—Headquarters were thrown open at the leading hotels for the Arthur, Blaine and Logan forces to-day, and preparations are making on every hand in advance of the arrival of a number of solid State delegations which is expected to begin to-morrow. It was estimated to-night that about 140 delegates had assembled, or about one sixth of the full complement of the convention. By to-morrow night or Sunday morning at the latest, two-thirds of the delegates are expected to be on the grounds. Galusha A. Grow, who has been mentioned for the chairmanship of the convention, has arrived from Pennsylvania.

LONDON, May 30.—The detective office in Scotland Yard was the scene of a dynamite explosion this evening, and a corner of the building, to the height of 30 feet, was blown off. A coachman, policeman and several other persons were injured. A bomb was thrown into the basement of the Junior Carlton Club House to-night, shattering the room and seriously injuring four female servants.

Boiler Explosion.

DETROIT, June 1.—By the explosion of two boilers in Wood & Thayer's mill near McBride's last Friday, Wesley Ammen, Augustus Newman and a man named Matthews were killed, and Charles Sauers probably fatally wounded. Several others were badly injured.

Conspirator Arrested.

PITTSBURG, June 1.—Thomas J. Watson, oil broker, who was arrested in Jersey City yesterday, on the charge of conspiring to defraud the Penn bank, arrived here to-day in charge of Officer O'Mara. Watson gave bail in $55,000 and was released. He refused to talk.

Brief Telegrams.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—At to-day's session of the Grand Lodge of Good Templars a resolution was adopted urging Congress to submit to the several States a joint resolution providing for an amendment to the United States constitution, which, if ratified, will prohibit the manufacture, importation and sale of all alcoholic beverages.

PITTSBURG, May 28.—Fifteen hundred coal miners of the Third Pool have refused to accept a reduction of a quarter of a cent, and will strike, unless the district price is paid. A delegate meeting is to be held in Monongahela City to consider the advisability of ordering a general strike of the four pools.

PITTSBURG, May 28.—The Funeral Directors' Association of Pennsylvania met in annual session here this morning. Two hundred and fifty delegates are in attendance, a number from other States. Nothing important has yet been transacted.

TOPEKA, May 28.—The Kansas Democratic convention met this afternoon and elected delegates to the Chicago convention. Resolutions were passed recommending, but not instructing, delegates to vote for Tilden.

CAIRO, May 28.—The Catholic bishop of the Soudan has just arrived at Cairo from the south. He reports that seven Italian priests and four sisters of mercy have been massacred at El Obeid.

He also reports three priests were exposed naked to the sun for four days and died from the effects of their exposure.

NEW YORK, May 28.—A letter from Havana, dated May 24, says: "A. Du Bouchet, an American citizen was forcibly taken from an American schooner on the charge that he was a suspicious character. After being searched he was permitted to proceed."

Small-pox at Ashland.

ASHLAND, Pa., May 30.—Small-pox still continues to spread. The borough authorities have built a hospital, which is now almost filled. Three new cases have developed to-day. The disease has broken out at Girardville, Centralia and intermediate points. No cause for spread of the disease can be assigned, save carelessness of the people. The residents of the entire valley are alarmed.

Not Charley Ross.

PHILADELPHIA, May 31.—Christian K. Ross said yesterday that he had received the photograph of the boy found at Quincy, Ill., supposed to be the long missing Charley Ross, but was unable to identify it as that of his son. The minute description accompanying the photograph also disagrees with Charley.

Mary Anderson.

LONDON, May 25.—Miss Mary Anderson's success in Manchester has been without precedent in theatrical annals. Her receipts during the past week have amounted to $10,760, which is a larger sum than was ever before taken by any dramatic attraction in the same length of time in that city.

The Next Shakespeare to be a Woman.

At certain times in the world's progress, great minds arise to readjust conditions of thought that are already existing, and to give inpetus to great ideas that are lying dormant, or are just beginning to resolve themselves into tangible form. Of the three great and wonderful minds—Homer, Dante and Shakespeare—whose thought has created and molded the thought of ages, two, at least, Dante and Shakespeare, have done much to place a nobler and higher estimate on woman and her wonderful relations to the world. It would seem that since the appearance of Dante at the horizon, dispelling the clouds and revealing the dawn of modern thought, man has grown more tender and reverent to woman, while she, on her part, has enlarged the sphere of her activities, by the cultivation of those heaven-born faculties that were originally bestowed alike on man and woman, though varying in kind. To woman's thought the world of to-day is greatly indebted, and having achieved what she has already achieved, no human power can arrest her progress up and onward to higher, better things. It is not improbable or impossible in the sequence of events, that in order to accomplish the intellectual redemption of the sex, there may arise in this land a woman that shall be the fourth great mind of the world—a mind that shall, like Shakespeare's, be an instrument to unfold a new philosophy and higher and nobler truths than man has yet uttered to glorified and illumed by those beautiful and delicate feminine qualities that are so divinely human. And as nature's laws are revealed through this new agency, they will be transmuted and shine in dazzling beauty, and the world will be ashamed of its ugliness, and will shake off its grosser tendencies and renew its youth, and man and nature will be more nearly akin in purity and beauty. Woman thus will be divinely appointed to promote and bring about the moral redemption of the world.

Mr. Dana's Little Mint.

From the Washington Capital.

I learn that Mr. Dana's income from that paper is not only princely, but that it is exceeded only by that of Mr. Bennett When Mr. Dana took hold of the Sun he made a contract with the trustees to edit the paper at a salary of $10,000 a year. He had then some twenty shares in the paper. Said he: "Now if the profits of the paper are large I think I ought to have an interest in them outside of my salary, and I propose that all dividends above twenty-five per cent. shall be divided, and that I have half." The stockholders, to whom a dividend of twenty-five per cent. seemed not only very large, but very improbable, said: "Why, of course, if we declare any dividends over twenty-five per cent. you shall have one-half." "Will you make a contract to that effect for ten years?" said Mr. Dana. The stockholders agreed and the contracts were made.

Within two years the paper paid over fifty per cent. and for a number of years has not paid less than eighty. The ten-year contract expired a year or two ago and it was renewed, with this change, that Mr. Dana gets one-half of all the dividends over forty per cent. I hear on the best authority that Mr. Dana's share last year, including his salary, was $207,000.

The Drunkard's Will.

It is with much pleasure we comply with a request to give space to the following expressive sentences which appeared in an exchange under the above title. We hope that some one will be benefited by them:

"I leave to society a ruined character, a wretched example and a memory that will soon rot.

"I leave to my parents, during the rest of their lives, as much sorrow as humanity in a feeble and declining state can sustain.

"I leave to my brothers and sisters as much mortification and injury as I could bring on them.

"I leave to my wife a broken heart, a life of wretchedness and shame, to weep over my premature death.

"I give and bequeath to each of my children, ignorance and low character, and the remembrance that their father was a monster.

A GOOD INVESTMENT.—One of our prominent business men said to us the the other day: "In the spring my wife got all run down and could not eat anything; passing your store I saw a pile of Hood's Sarsaparilla in the window, and I got a bottle. After she had taken it a week she had a rousing appetite, and did her everything. She took three bottles, and it was the best three dollars I ever invested." C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

The June number of the Manhattan, a most entertaining number by the way, opens with an illustrated article entitled "An American Studio in Florence," by H. Buxton Forman, in which American artists will find much to interest them. A fine portrait is given of Henry Roderick Newman, with a number of his sketches in Florence. The renowned poets, "The Brownings," are made the subject of an interesting sketch by K. M. Rowland, and Earnest Ingersoll contributes a second paper on "The Gunnison Country." The illustrations in this work are very fine, and the descriptive matter highly interesting, particularly to those unfamiliar with this picturesque region. "Trogan," the novel, is continued, and "Tinkling Symbals" concludes with this issue. There are several spicy short stories and the editorial departments are full as usual.

Harper's Magazine for June opens with an illustrated article, by Lucie C. Lilly, entitled "Biarritz," a watering place for invalids supposed to be situated somewhere on the shore, of the Bay of Biscay. This is as near as we can come to locating the place without resorting to the map, the author evidently having taken it for granted that everybody knows of Biarritz and all about it. They don't, however, and this lack of definiteness detracts from what would otherwise be an interesting paper. An excellent article on the "New York Custom House" is contributed by R. Wheatly, showing the manner in which the enormous business of this establishment is conducted, and the nature of it. The article is profusely illustrated, a fine portrait of Collector Robertson being given. An illustrated article on "Sheffield" will be found very interesting reading, as will also "The North Shore," illustrating the wild scenery along the Minnesota coast. The number contains several racy short stories, poems, etc., and the usual amount of crisp editorial matter.

The American Agriculturist for June is out with its pages crowded with valuable information for the farmer, gardner and housewife. This excellent magazine should be in every household in the land and every inmate should read it. Address, American Agriculturist, 751 Broadway, New York.

We have received the June number of the Eclectic, that popular repository of foreign literature. The contents of this number are unusually interesting and instructive as well. The more important papers are "The Coming Slavery," by Herbert Spencer, "Alexandre Dumas, the Elder," by Edmond About, "Curiosities of the Electric Light," "Historic London," by Frederick Harrison, "A New Theory of Sunspots," by Prof. Proctor. "Wordsworth and Byron," by Algernon C. Swinburne, and "Prodigality and Attruism" from the Spectator. Here are a variety of entertaining subjects, and all will well repay reading. The number also contains several pages of well selected miscellany.

Lines from Loveville.

LOVEVILLE, May 30, 1884.

MR. EDITOR: This morning was ushered in by a slight frost which, however, was not severe enough in this vicinity to occasion any serious injury. The crops, both grain and grass, indicate large yields.

Mr. Isaiah Beck can boast of possessing the finest field of clover for miles around, its uniform thickness and height being its chief point of superiority.

Mr. Thomas M. Way has sold his grist mill. The purchaser whose name I forget, takes possession on the first of June, after which time he will be prepared to welcome all who will patronize him. Mr. Jesse Whippo, the present miller, willemain with the new purchaser for a while.

It seems to me that the streets of Loveville were thronged with more than the usual number of "fair ones" last Saturday evening. They received a correspondingly large number of admiring glances from the gallant gentlemen.

Mr. Osborne Whippo purposes to improve his property by erecting a new picket fence on Main street and along Mill avenue. It will contribute greatly to the present well kept appearance of the premises.

Mr. George Ellenbarger, with the assistance of his neighbors, on Thursday, May 29, raised the lower frame of his barn. Among the number who came to assist there were several merchants who evidently had read Josh Billings' "old age" plan of taking the small end of the log and doing the grunting. Mr. C. W. Keith, station agent at Marengo, was a conspicuous figure in the group. "Charlie," being about as big as he is handsome and possessed of a nature most genial, his company would seem to be almost indispensable on such an occasion, especially if he lifts in proportion to his size.

But remember me as
"WEB."

Echoes of Memorial Day.

BOGGS TOWNSHIP, May 30, 1884.

EDITOR NEWS: Each succeeding year witnesses a more universal observance of Decoration Day. Through the care of the various posts of the G. A. R., the resting places of all deceased soldiers are ascertained and on this day are decorated in a befitting manner. The Dr. George L. Potter Post, No. 261, of Milesburg, noted for its energy, discovered that nine deceased soldiers were interred in the cemetery of the Advent church in Boggs township, and they arranged, this year, to have the graves of these properly remembered. The services commenced soon after 10 o'clock, and were conducted under the direction of a large delegation of Geo. L. Potter Post, headed by Comrade Austin Curtin. A line was formed which, preceded by the citizens' Cornet Band, marched into the cemetery, where the usual services were held and flowers deposited.

The persons present then repaired to the church which was found to be too small to accommodate all. Here the meeting was addressed by Wilbur F. Reeder and S. D. Ray, Esqs., of Bellefonte, in very able speeches, which were well received and were eloquent tributes to the departed. These gentlemen made many friends by coming among us to-day, and their efforts cannot be too highly spoken of This closed the ceremonies at that place, and we may be assured that the large concourse of people assembled were benefited, and that the observance of this day in the community will have a marked effect upon the rising generation. VETERAN.

—Mr. E. J. Swavely, captain of the Lean Base Ball Nine, rode out to the Association grounds on Thursday in company with a Doctor. He (Swavely) appeared to be anxious and frightened. "Doctor," he said; "wouldn't it be well to take your instruments along." When the Doctor assured Swavely that he had a bottle of arnica in his pocket a look of relief was noticeable on the latter's countenance. Arriving on the ground, however, Swavely induced W. I. Fleming to take the captaincy of the club and refused to take part in it. He lingered around until the fatest man in the fat nine took the bat. The bat flew from the fat man's hands and came in contact with Swavely exactly—as Gov. Curtin would say—"below the belt." The bat was uninjured but Swavely vanished. We believe he was afterwards seen behind an ammunition wagon taking notes.

Trespassers Beware!

Copies of the following notice, which will be placed in conspicuous positions on the grounds surrounding the public school building in this place, are now being printed:

State Teachers' Association.

Extensive preparations are being made for the annual meeting of the State Teachers' Association, which will be held at Meadville, on July 8th, 9th and 10th. This gathering is one of the greatest importance to the school interests of Pennsylvania. There will be four hundred teachers and leading educators of the State in attendance. There will be two sessions daily, with lectures by prominent educators each evening. An excursion to Conneaut lake has been arranged and rates have been secured on the N. Y., P. & O. road for a trip to Chautauqua lake. An excursion will also be taken to Cleveland, with a ride on Lake Erie. On Wednesday evening, July 9th, a grand reception will be tendered the members of the association by the citizens of Meadville, at Liberty Hall. This will be an elaborate affair, including a banquet. The Northwestern orchestra, of twelve pieces, will supply the music. Meadville is making great preparations for the event.

THEY had a Democratic banquet in San Francisco the other night, at which it was arranged that the high-toners sat at the head of the table and were to have fancy dishes and the wine, while the low toners were placed at the foot and were to have the common fare and whiskey. The low toners were next the kitchen door, and intercepted the fancy fare until they had their fill, by which time it was all gone, and the high toners got nothing but the champagne which they had smuggled in before the crowd was admitted. The result was that the high toners were not in as good humor as the low toners, and went away with a stronger desirer for something to eat than for another banquet. What a delightful instance of democratic harmony.

JAY GOULD is said to have lost $21,642,000 by shrinkage in the value of his securities. Don't jump to the conclusion that he is going under, however. Once before in his career he dropped $23,000,000. That was when he had to make a return to the English stockholders of the Erie railroad. He has been with us since, though, just the same.

THE English detectives are finding so many packages of explosives that the suspicion is growing that the finders are also the hiders. The livelier the dynamite scare the more importance accrues to the police department.

IT has been remarked that this country has been growing cold on its National holidays. This will not apply to Decoration Day. The veneration for it will continue so long as the Government endures.

BEN BUTLER now has the nomination of two small parties for President. but has only a record of defeat to run on, which will not be very serviceable in the race for the White House.

—Why not build a creamatory in Bellefonte? After August 1 no bodies will be received at the Washington, Pa., creamatory except from that county.

—The time for holding the Gypsy Camp on the public school grounds has been changed from Friday to Thursday afternoon and evening.

Medical

THE WONDER

Is becoming universal as to how such an immense sale could be created in Lowell for HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA: But, my friend, if you could stand behind our counter a week and hear what those say who are using it, the reason would appear as clear as the noon-day sun. The real curative power of HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA demonstrates itself in every case where our directions are faithfully regarded. We would that we might get before the people a fractional part of the confidence that is expressed to us every day in this medicine by those who have carefully noted (without prejudice) its effects upon the blood and through that upon the whole system, stimulating all the functions of the body to perform the duties nature requires of them. Try a bottle and satisfy yourself.

Cold Hands and Feet.

LOWELL, Feb. 3, 1879.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO.: Gentlemen—About one year ago my daughter commenced taking your Sarsaparilla. At that time she had very little appetite; could take no long walks, and her face was badly broken out with a humor. She was low-spirited; troubled with cold hands and feet; her blood seemed to be poor, and she was in a condition which caused us great anxiety. After taking one bottle of your Sarsaparilla she began to improve; and she now has a good appetite and can take much longer walks. Her humor is nothing compared with what it was one year ago. She is in better spirits, is not troubled with cold hands and feet as previously. And I attribute this improvement in her condition largely to your Sarsaparilla. She has taken six bottles, and intends to continue its use. I was inclined to oppose the trial of it at first. I now have great faith in it as a blood purifier. Very truly yours,

REMOVAL!

I would respectfully inform my friends and the public generally that I have removed my place of business to my new building on Water Street, Bellefonte, Centre county, Penn'a, near High Street bridge, and near the depot. The house has been built with a view to the needs of the Gun and Fishing Tackle business. It is my desire to make this establishment second to none in Pennsylvania. To successfully do this I respectfully ask your co-operation. I can sell you anything in my line as cheaply as goods of the same quality can be bought for anywhere else. A new stock of FISHING TACKLE just received. GUNS, REVOLVERS, AMMUNITION at astonishingly low prices.

Send for new illustrated Catalogue containing a copy of the Game Laws of Pennsylvania.

I have also connected with my establishment a SHOOTING GALLERY; a good 20 yard range, with splendid Targets, CREEDMOOR RIFLES and ELECTRIC LIGHT. This gallery will be open for practice on the evening of April 9th. You are cordially invited to be present.

Nothing Wanting!

SPICES.—The best cook in the land cannot cook successfully without pure, fresh spices. These we have in every variety. Well-seasoned food adds to long life and happiness.

SUGARS AND SYRUPS.—In Sugars and Syrups we have all the best brands in the market. Much of the sugar now sold is adulterated, and in an article of this kind there is great waste. We buy from reliable dealers, and handle only the genuine goods.

TEAS AND COFFEES.—No breakfast can be thoroughly enjoyed without a good cup of coffee or tea. A drink of this kind is stimulating and goes right to the spot. Our Coffees and Teas are fresh and strictly pure. The fragrant odor which escapes from the steaming pot as it comes in from the kitchen will convince you of this. We sell more coffee than any other two houses in the county. Why? Because we sell the best and the people know it.

NUTS, CONFECTIONERY, ETC.—In Nuts and Confectionery we have everything that is nice, and just what will please the young folks, and old folks as well. Our candies are all pure and wholesome; We do not handle the highly-colored, poisonous mixtures that ruin and decay the teeth. We have new Florida oranges (this fall's crop), fine Figs and Prunes, and a choice line of Canned Fruits and Preserves. Bear this in mind when preparing to Celebrate the merry holidays.

We make special mention of the above lines of goods because they are all leading articles at this season of the year. In other lines our stock is equally fresh and complete.

We buy the Best Goods and sell at the Lowest Figures.

Call in and inspect our No. 1 goods. Then you will know where to purchase when your cupboard needs replenishing.

The Affairs of the Penn Bank.

PITTSBURG, May 27.—The affairs of the Penn Bank continue to be the engrossing subject among all classes, but up to noon there was as little definitely known as at the time of the closing yesterday.

President Riddle slept fairly well last night and this morning was sufficiently recovered to enable him to be removed to the residence of D. A. Stewart, in the East End.

Two well-known and experienced bankers made a careful examination of the books last night. Every opportunity was given them to make a superficial examination. According to their statement, the books show $300,000 were drawn out from the time of the resumption on Friday until the close yesterday, with deposits decreased correspondingly.

The Directors of the defunct bank this morning took possession of the individual book accounts of the concern, and up to 1 o'clock had struck some developments which promise to show why the second collapse came so suddenly. There is among the accounts one of the firm of D. Wilson & Co., which shows overchecking to the extent of $240,000. No such firm is known in this city, and it is supposed to represent the account of a number of persons lately operating on the wrong side of the oil market, and who have been allowed to draw on it to the extent named.

Killed by a Boar.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 27.—Yesterday afternoon Henry Vare, living at Moyamensing and Snyder avenues, was bitten in the abdomen by a pig and in a few minutes bled to death. Vare was dealer in hogs and was well used to managing them. Among those that he had was a vicious boar, having long and sharp tusks. Vare was in the act of putting the animal in a pen, when the pig, becoming very ugly, attacked him. Vare had a stout stick and tried to beat the mad beast away, but it was of no use. The pig thrust his head between the man's legs, caught hold of the flesh between the thigh and the lower part of the abdomon, and cut in deeply with his tusks. An artery was severed, and the blood gushed out copiously. Vare fell flat to the ground. His brother rushed to him, but before he raised him from the earth he died. The pig was immediately slaughtered. Just six years ago this very week, Vare's father, Augustus, was killed by being knocked down by a runaway horse.

Senator Cameron in Washington.

WASHINGTON, May 26.—Senator J. D. Cameron arrived here this evening. He took a hansom cab, one of the shabbiest of a very shabby lot, and was driven in it directly to the residence of Mrs. Sherman, his mother-in-law, on Seventeenth street. It was reported that he would be the guest of President Arthur at the White House and this was quoted as putting the brand of absurdity on the rumor that he preferred Blaine to Arthur. The fact that he is domiciled at Mrs. Sherman's leaves the gossips still at sea. Some say he secretly desires the nomination of Senator Sherman, but there are few who believe that he is for anybody except Arthur. The Senator is looking pale and worn and his friends here express a fear that his foreign tour has not done him much good.

Making the Corpse Fit the Coffin.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 27.—There is great excitement at Oak Creek over the action of the relatives of Horace Baldwin, in sawing off his legs when he died last week to make them fit the coffin. Baldwin was six feet seven inches tall, and when the day of the funeral came it was found the body was too long for the coffin, and a nephew severed the feet from the body with a common saw. While at work he said he thought Baldwin moved and fell in a dead faint, when another relative finished cutting off the legs. At one time, soon after the funeral, it was thought the nephew would be mobbed by the neighbors, but the crowd was quieted by supervisors.

General Grant.

NEW YORK, May 26.—Reporters have been unable to get any authorized statement from General Grant or from his counsel, Clarence Seward, to whom he defers, in the matter regarding the allegation made by President Fish, of the Marine bank, that he had letters from General Grant assuring him that the government contracts of Grant & Ward were genuine. Interviews with the friends of Grant indicate very clearly, however, that they are convinced he will show in a day or two that Fish's statements are either entirely false or that they so misrepresent and distort the actual facts as to be worthless.

Forty-six Children.

SENECA CITY, S. C., May 25.—Near this place there lives one of the largest families in the United States. Mr. Joel Vaughn has been married four times. His last three wives were widows, all of whom had children by previous husbands, respectively eight, seven and four, a total of nineteen. These four wives bore Mr. Vaughn twenty-seven children, which, added to the nineteen stepchildren, gave Mr. Vaughn control of forty-six children. There are thus seven different sets of children. The old man is now 80 years of age, and his youngest child is an infant.

The Penn Bank Again Suspends.

PITTSBURGH, May 26.—The clearing house threw out $265,000 of checks of the Penn bank this morning, and again the bank is closed. Exactly what led to this condition of affairs is not definitely known at this time. Yesterday afternoon President Riddle had a long talk with the writer and he was hopeful both as to the bank and his own health. This morning at a quarter past 10 o'clock he was as cheerful as before, and said business was going on smoothly. An hour and a half later he lay dying in his room at the Duquense club and the bank was closed, the following notice being posted on the panels of its door:

"Mr. Riddle, the president and chief executive officer of the bank, having become suddenly and seriously ill and unable to communicate with the board of directors, it is deemed proper to close the bank under the existing circumstances until he sufficiently recovers to be present in the adjustment of its affairs. By order of the Board."

The cause of President Riddle's illness is due to an overdose of morphia or chloroform, which he took this morning. Physicians are endeavoring to relieve him of the drug.

When it was discovered that President Riddle, of the Penn bank, had taken a narcotic great excitement prevailed and the Duquesne club building, where he had been taken, was besieged by anxious inquirers after his condition. A stomach pump was brought into requisition, and this evening the patient had recovered consciousness. It was learned that he had been attacked with a severe pain in the morning and had taken an overdose.

Pittsburg's White Elephant.

PITTSBURG, May 28.—The deficiency in the Penn Bank still grows, and this evening has reached $1,260,000. Heavy defalcations are also hinted at, which it is claimed reach nearly $1,000,000. Many of those who made deposits on Friday last threaten the bank officials with criminal proceedings for false pretences in obtaining their money. Cashier Reiber is now under police surveilance. President Riddle is much better to-night and will probably be strong enough to come to the city to-morrow. The Pennsylvania Mutual Protection Association was organized some time ago with J. Hopkins as president, W. R. Riddle, treasurer and F. D. Sellers, secretary. Its object was the insurance of the lives of its members. It is now believed to have been primarily designed to bring grist to the Penn Bank mill in the shape of collection assessments when deaths occurred.

Bold Mail Coach Robbery.

HELENA, Mont., May 28.—Two masked men, mounted and armed with Winchester rifles, robbed the Benton coach yesterday, twenty-five miles from Helena. They rifled the mail bags and robbed the passengers. The treasure box was also sacked, but contained nothing of value. The spot where the robbery took place was in the canon at the gate of the Mountains. The robbers rode suddenly out of the timber at the side of the road and, with leveled guns, compelled the driver to stop. The passengers—C. W. Cooper, C. E. Dudley ane F. F. Bradley—were ordered out of the coach and placed in line. Cooper lost $75 and a silver watch; Dudley $140; Bradley a small amount of money and jewelry. It is not known what valuables were in the mail. The Sheriff and two others are now in pursuit.

A Dangerous Rock.

NEW YORK, May 26.—The rock in the East river on which the Pilgrim struck was found and located by the Fall River Line on Saturday last an expedition from that steamer being organized for the purpose. This hitherto unknown obstruction lies five hundred feet east northeast in a general direction from the Nineteenth street buoy. There are only between two and three fathoms of water over it at low tide. A United States Coast Survey steamer is now engaged in buoying the rock.

A Crematory.

LANCASTER, Pa., May 27.—The announcement that after Aug. 1 the Lemoyne Crematory at Washington, Pa., the only one of its kind in the country, will receive no bodies except from that county, has stimulated the project started some weeks ago to erect a cremation furnace here. The twenty subscribers to the movement include lawyers, editors, bankers, physicians, merchants, and teachers Committees on building, location and cost were appointed to-night. The project is already an assured success.

A Presidential Term of Six Years.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—The Senate Committee on Judiciary has reported favorably the following proposed amendment to the Constitution:

ARTICLE 2. The executive power shall be vested in a President of the United States of America. The President and Vice President shall hold their offices for the term of six years, but the President shall not be re-eligible, nor shall the Vice President be eligible to the office of President if he shall have exercised the same in case of vacancy therein.

More Tariff Tinkering.

WASHINGTON, May 26.—The Star to-night quotes Representative Hurd, of Ohio, as saying that an effort will be made at this session to extend the free list by the addition of lumber and coal. It is understood that Secretary Folger has written a letter to Representative Hewitt approving the administrative part of the latter's tariff bill. It is thought more than likely, therefore, that changes in the present law, provided in that part of the bill, will receive the sanction of the house.

A Crematory.

PHILADELPHIA, May 25.—Dr. E. P. Hyatt said to-day that he had determined to build a crematory either in this city or very near to it, and that he hoped to have it in operation in the coming fall. "There is a growing demand here," he said, "for such an institution. One reason is that our present mode of disposing of our dead is exceedingly dangerous to health, especially in crowded communities. Our cemeteries are the reservoirs of disease, and the people have begun to recognize that fact. Another reason is economy. Of late years funerals have become so expensive that people have in some instances had to place a mortgage on their property to raise the money to bury their dead. There may be objections to the establishment of the crematory in the city. If there are, I shall build it out of town.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth! If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. 15 22 1y

A young man up town who is overseeing the excavation of earth for the introduction of water-pipes, looked down in a great hole and yelled out: "How many is down there?" "Three, sor," said one of the number. "Half of you come up, then," said the young man.

Itching Piles—Symptoms and Cure.

The symptoms are moisture, like perspiration, intense itching, increased by scratching; very distressing, particularly at night; seems as if pinworms were crawling in and about the rectum; the private parts are sometimes affected. If allowed to continue very serious results may follow. "SWAYNE'S OINTMENT" is a pleasant, sure cure. Also, for tetter, Itch, salt rheum, scald-head, erysipelas, barbers' itch, blotches, all scaly, crusty skin diseases. Box, by mail, 50 cts.; 3 for $1.25. Address, DR. SWAYNE & SON, Phila., Pa. Sold by druggists. may6 1y

"Do you think that a lion and a lamb have ever lain down together?" asked a college student of a professor. "I really don't know," answered the professor. "But if they ever did such a thing, I've no no doubt the lamb was missing from date."

Liver, Kidney or Stomach Trouble.

Symptoms; Impure blood, costive bowels, irregular appetite, sour belching, pains in side, back and heart, yellow urine, burning when urinating, clay-colored stools, bad breath, no desire for work, chills fever, irritability, whitish tongue, dry cough, dizzy head, with dull pain in back part, loss of memory, foggy sight. For these troubles "SWAYNE'S PILLS" are a sure cure. Box, (30 pills) by mail, 25 cts; 5 for $1.00. Address, DR. SWAYNE & SON, Phila., Pa. Sold by druggists. 16 14 1y

It always pains us to see our contemporaries referring to the cup that cheers. The cup, we have frequently tried to explain, never cheers. It is the man who fills and empties it too often who does the cheering.

London Hair Restorer—Great English.

Toilet article. Restores growth, color, gloss, and softness. Removes dandruff. Aristocratic families of Great Britain endorse it. Elegant dressing. Fragrantly perfumed. The favorite of fashion. At druggists for 3s 1½d, or 75 cts. in U. S. money. 16 14 1y

"Evergreen hedges may be trimmed," remarks a fashion paper. The prevailing style, however, is to have them plain. An evergreen hedge trimmed with bugle beads and point lace ought never to be popular.

Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Consumption.

All throat, breast and and lung affections cured by the old-established "SWAYNE'S WILD-CHERRY." The first dose gives relief, and a cure speedily follows. 25 cts., or $1.00, at druggists. 16 14 1y

Mountain telegraph cables are recommended for carrying news across the continent, and for squaws to hang their clothes out to dry, that is if they ever think it necessary to wash their clothes.

FITS.—All fits stopped free by Dr. Kline's great Nerve Restorer. No fits after first day's use. Marvelous cures. Treatise and $2.00 trial bottle free to fit cases. Send to Dr. Kline, 931 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa. 15 22 1y

Young man, when you see an old maid adjusting her spectacles and clipping out that part of a paper headed "Sealed Proposals," it is time for you to take to the woods.

WARNER'S SAFE KIDNEY AND LIVER CURE

"I herd," is the way the cowboy begins a conversation.

Sales.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS

—It is said that Mr. C. G. MacMillen contemplates uniting with the Salvation Army when it visits this place.

—Dr. E. E. Higbee, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, was in Williamsport on Monday evening of last week.

—John Delige, the colored rioter, was liberated from jail on Wednesday before the NEWS announcing his capture was issued.

—Proprietor Teller, of the Bush House, served a tempting feast of turtle soup to his friends on Monday evening of last week.

—Twenty-five Knights Templar went from Lock Haven to the Grand Conclave in Erie. They were accompanied by a band of music.

—The Acme Base Ball Club will play a game with State College Club No. 2, on the grounds of the latter on Saturday afternoon, June 6.

—A new telegraph company is soon to run its lines into Bellefonte and will open an office here. It is the Western Pennsylvania Telegraph Company.

—An additional number of Italians went to work on Monday, May 26, under Mr. Good, the Lock Haven contractor of part of the Bellefonte and Lemont R. R.

—Mr. John Brooks, who won the 10-mile bicycle race at Washington, is a resident of Blossburg, this State, and a member of the Wellsboro bicycle club. Time, 36 minutes and 3 4-5 seconds.

—Sunday, May 25, was a happy day in more than one family in Bellefonte, and particularly was it so in the household of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Robb, where a youthful treasure was received in the form of a darling infant daughter.

—Rev. John H. Hector (colored) who lectured in Centre Hall last week, promises to visit Bellefonte on the occasion of the G. A. R. State Encampment, at which time he will relate "His Own Story," a lecture giving an account of his experiences and sufferings when a slave.

—The State Editorial Association, of Pennsylvania, will hold their annual meeting and make their excursion this year to Gettysburg, on June 17th, and will remain in session three days. The time not devoted to business will be devoted to excursions over the famous Gettysburg battlefield.

—An Indiana girl was swinging in a hammock when a man passed her on horseback with a gun across the pommel of his saddle. The horse stumbled and jarred the gun. It went off and hit the girl in the hammock. Her mother, who was in the kitchen washing the dishes, was not hurt.—Ex.

—There is a pretty young lady in New York who has been placed in jail because she wont give certain legal testimony that is desired of her. This is chiefly remarkable because it is the rarest event imaginable to punish a woman for refusing to talk; under most circumstances it would be considered worthy the highest praise

—Tuesday, May 27, the day set apart by the W. C. T. Union as a day of prayer, in view of the coming Presidential election, was observed from 10 until 4 o'clock p. m. by the W. C. T. U. of this place. A large attendance of ladies was present and many earnest prayers offered that God would overrule in the coming conventions for His own glory and the good of "Home and Native Land."

—John Delige, the Negro man who was so conspicuous in the riot which occurred on Jail hill on Tuesday morning, May 27, was arrested the same afternoon, after putting the officers of the law to considerable trouble. They chased him all the way to Milesburg at one time, but he ran too fast for them. Later in the day he returned and was captured.

—The Western Pennsylvania Telegraph Company, which is about to apply for articles of incorporation, will pass through the following counties: Greene, Washington, Lawrence, Beaver, Mercer, Crawford, Erie, Warren, Forest, Venango, Butler, Allegheny, Westmoreland, Fayette, Sommerset, Indiana, Armstrong, Clarion, McKean, Elk, Jefferson, Clearfield Cambria, Blair, Bedford, Centre and Cameron.

—What is known as the Base Ball Association may eventually develop into an organization of great physical and mental benefit to the young folks of Bellefonte if the present idea of some of its projectors can be carried out. When the charter is obtained and the organization is put on a paying basis the Association grounds can be improved and beautified, and made the resort of all persons who desire to use them for exercises and amusements which require either strength or skill.

Howard Strays.

The Berough is improving the streets.

We are to have a new school house pretty soon.

The service in the M. E. church Sunday last—a sermon to the Post 262, G. A. R., by Rev. O. Hicks—was very largely attended. The old soldiers listened to preaching just as though they were accustomed to church going. At the close of the sermon William Sharp, of Curtin Forge, a veteran of two wars, in a neat historic speech presented a well worn Testament to Mrs. William Hopkins, which was presented to him in February, '46, when he enlisted in the 7th U. S. Infantry, and took a full hand in the Mexican War, as Color Serg't, of Co. E., reg't. named above. The Testament he had with him in several of the heaviest battles of that war, when the stars and stripes were hoisted over the city of Mexico, and other places of note. During the war of the rebellion, he served in the 54 Pa. Vols. and the same Testament shared the campaigns and battle field exploits. After this army experience, he presented the book with appropriate remarks to the oldest member living of the family to which it originally belonged.

A voice from New Washington, Clearfield county, would not be out of tune here. Henry Neff, Sr., better known as "Uncle" Henry, was surprised a few weeks since by a large party of relatives taking possession of his home in New Washington on his 81st birthday, nearly a hundred persons, little and big, extending their congratulations on that day.

(We mention this, for a host of relatives live in Centre Co.) "X."

A Gypsy Camp.

On Friday, the 6th of June, the ladies of the Episcopal church will offer their friends the most novel and beautiful entertainment of the season. They have perceived the necessity of originating something new, as the ordinary festival is becoming monotonous and unsatisfactory and a Gypsy Camp is the result of their plans. The public school grounds have been secured for the purpose and will be fitted up in an artistic way. The ladies will be dressed in gypsy costume. They will not resemble the ordinary, every-day, repulsive looking gypsies that occasionally visit Bellefonte, but they will personate the romantic gypsies that the story-books tell about. Of course, their attire will be picturesque. The fortune-teller will be there seated in a large, richly ornamented vehicle. She will paint for you the brightest future possible if you will cross her palm with gold or silver. The camp will be open during the day and an elegant supper will be served, to be followed with light refreshments, consisting of ice cream and strawberries. The grounds will be illuminated in the evening. Other features of interest will be planned, and it will be so interesting that if the weather is fine the attendance will be large and the profits correspondingly gratifying.

Railroad Notes.

The number of men in the employ of Mr. George W. Good on the Bellefonte and Lemont Railroad, as stated in the NEWS of Tuesday, May 27, was about four times the real number actually at work, which is only 50. The same contractors are also supplied with a sufficient number of horses and carts to carry on the work satisfactorily. Messrs. Jackson & Batchelor have also commenced work and have about 40 men employed. Mr. Chas. McCafferty is continuing the work on his part of the contract. Messrs. Shipman & Walls have not yet begun operations. Most of the men employed by Good and Jackman & Batchelor are Italians.

It has been intimated on good authority that if the Buffalo Run Railroad Company will finish their road the Pennsylvania Company will lease it from them for a term of years, giving them a certain proportion of the gross earnings, and thus affording them some return for the money already invested. Of course, it will be necessary to lease the road only until the Beech Creek connection shall be constructed.

—From the Tyrone correspondent of the Altoona Times: "The Eclectic Medical Association of Pennsylvania will meet in Tyrone on June 4 and 5, and at the same time the Central Medical Association will also meet. We had the pleasure of attending one of these conventions one time at Bellefonte, where we made the acquaintance of a good many doctors of this association, and shall esteem it a special privilege to renew old friendships entered into at that time. Let the people of Tyrone give them a royal welcome so that they may feel perfectly at home."

—The State Board of Agriculture will meet in Lock Haven on the 11th and 12th of June.

A Morning Fight.

An incident of last week on Jail Hill was a quarrel among colored people in which one white person figured more or less prominently. It was the culmination, we are told, of a quarrel of long standing. Some blood was spilled but no one was seriously injured. The police and a justice of the peace "flew"—figuratively speaking—to the rescue and soon the scene of carnage was concealed by the pure and unsullied wings of the law and justice. But evil spirits, e'en when confined, will groan out their despair and the cries of the female who was incarcerated in durance vile were said to be heart-rending; in short, as shocking as a galvanic battery. We trust that peace will once again fill the capacious bosoms of these perturbed denizens of the Jail hill, and that citizens of all color will behave themselves in a manner that will reflect credit on the town and its inhabitants.

In fact, the fight was a very serious one. It is said that axes and other implements of warfare flew thick and fast through the air and someone might have been killed. The shanty where the people live who engaged in the affair is a very objectionable hole of iniquity and should be removed. Several colored families and one or more white persons, live together there.

other arrests as the affair of this morning has brought the indignation of the community to a focus.

Town Items.

About 50 men are at work on sections 3, 4 and 5 of the Bellefonte and Lemont Railroad, under the control of Mr. George Good, of Lock Haven. It is the intention of the contractor for these three sections to complete them within one month from date.

Cabbage and tomato plants are numerous and very fine.

The lawns around some of Bellefonte's private residences and also that around the Court House present an attractive appearance. Next thing we know the girls will also be surrounding themselves with lawns in the hope that they will elicit the same amount of admiration. "A saint in crape is twice a saint in lawn." —Pope.

The Episcopal Mite Society at the home of Mrs. Neff on Bishop street on Monday evening, May 26, was largely attended and productive of much pleasure and profit to those present. Mrs. Neff is considered to be more than ordinarily popular in the role of an entertainer.

Quakers in Bedford County.

From the Johnstown Tribune: On next Sunday the quarterly meeting of Quakers will be held at Spring Meadow, Bedford county. This meeting has been held regularly at that place the first Sunday in June for the past half century or more, and people of all denominations from all quarters, but principally Quakers, assemble—some from as far east as Philadelphia. There are seldom less than one thousand present at these meetings, and frequently many more, thus taxing the hospitality and hotel accommodations of the neighborhood for miles around. There are many Quakers in Bedford county, they supporting two churches in the southern portion of the county—one at Spring Meadow and the other at Fisherville, one of the Hicksite branch and the other orthodox. It goes without saying that these people are all honest, industrious, and in every way the best of citizens.

Death of Levi Dickson.

DICKSON.—On the 23d of May, 1884, in Boggs township, Levi Dickson, aged 65 years, 11 months and 22 days.

The deceased leaves a wife, three sons and one daughter. He had been ill for many months with an affection of the stomach which seemed to be beyond the reach of medicine to remedy. The illness was supposed by some to be cancer of the stomach, but the absence of several symptoms of that disease compells a different conclusion. His sickness was prolonged during five months. He was not able to taste food for several days previous to his decease, and on the day when he took the last nourishment he was aware that dissolution was near at hand although he lived some time after that. He maintained his clearness of intellect and strength of mind until the last.

Memorial Text.

It is of importance to make a special note of sermons delivered on certain occasions and for that reason we publish the Scripture text upon which Rev. J. F. DeLong based his eloquent sermon to Gregg Post, G. A. R., on Sunday, May 25. It was from II. Timothy 2: 3, 4 as follows:

"And therefore endure hardness as a good soldier of Jesus Christ.

"No man that warreth entangleth himself with the affairs of this life; that he may please him who hath chosen him to be a soldier."

—May 24 was "Expectation Sunday;" June 1 was "Whit Sunday."

—The Lock Haven Daily Democrat in alluding to Bellefonte, has the following: "It cannot be denied, there is a lot of very charming maids up there, the old variety predominating—but what on earth can be the reason they are not in better demand, and that such a large surplus is always accumulated? One reason we think is that they are lop-sided, from gadding about so much over the no-end of hills of that place. Their gossiping propensities may be another. So inveterate is this habit with Bellefonte people that they are having telephones put in every house to facilitate the interchange of tittle-tattle. The wires are kept humming, too. The switch tender of that exchange has an arduous position." So you admit the fact that they are "charming," do you? That's right. But you err when you intimate that there is a "large surplus." Just because they refuse to accept the attentions of every Lock Haven male doughhead is not sufficient to cause a surplus. There are plenty of young men in Bellefonte to claim them and keep them at home. The Democrat is mistaken to infer that Bellefonters ever indulge, like Lock Havenites, in the exchange of "tittle-tattle." Conversation is here an esteemed and much cultivated art. The warmth of our affections has induced the introduction of steam heat and the brilliancy of our conversation has compelled us to make use of the electric light. The soft, sentimental talk which the old maids of Lock Haven indulge in on the telephone has almost forbidden its introduction there. But the increasing intimacy of Lock Haven with Bellefonte will doubtless redound to the improvement of the former.

The Lucky Number.

It doesn't take a notice in the DAILY NEWS long to accomplish the object for which it is intended. The announcement was made in the NEWS on Monday, the 26th, that No. 64 had drawn C. P. Hilder's splendid painting entitled "The Arrest." The owner of the number had been searched for quite a long time without success, but the NEWS found him in a few hours. We expected to keep the notice in all that week, but one issue proved to be sufficient. Mr. Thomas Newell held the lucky number, he having invested in four chances. He sold the painting to Mr. Chas. Heisler for $25 and it will hereafter ornament the latter gentleman's establishment. As Mr. Heisler had previously invested in 32 chances the painting really cost him quite a large sum, but as its value is $125 his purchase may be considered a good bargain. The moral of all this is, that as everybody reads the DAILY NEWS, it is only necessary to advertise in it for what you want and it will be forthcoming so soon as to completely surprise you.

Scrofula diseases manifest themselves in the spring. Hood's Sarsaparilla cleanses the blood and removes every taint of scrofula.

—The State military officers visited Gettysburg recently and arranged the headquarters and location of troops for the encampment of the National Guards, which will take place on that historic battle field in August next. This year the three brigades will go into camp together, as at Lewistown year before last.

We have spent over $100,000.00 in defending our right to the Durham Bull as our trade-mark. Undoubtedly he is to-day the most valuable Bull in the world. Now it stands to reason that we couldn't afford to protect him so thoroughly if BLACKWELL'S BULL DURHAM Tobacco, of which he is the representative, wasn't the BEST Smoking Tobacco ever made.

The sales of Blackwell's Bull Durham Smoking Tobacco far exceed those of any other brand in the world, simply because it has been, is, and will be, the best that can be made. All dealers have it. Look for trade-mark of the Bull on every package.

—The rails on the Spring Mills and Lemont R. R. will be laid to the latter place within 60 days.

—The clerks of Bellefonte will play the Association base ball nine on the fair ground next Saturday afternoon.

—At the recent Grand Commandery of Knights Templar in Erie, Rev. John Hewitt was again elected to the position of Grand Prelate.

—Score in Thursday's game of base ball between the Fats and Leans was 28 to 21 in favor of the former. Jno. Wagner pitched for the Leans and Dr. Dartt for the Fats. Wonderful science displayed on each side.

—It is reported that the State College base ball club expect to play both the Tyrone and Williamsport nines soon, the games to take place on the Bellefonte B. B. Association grounds. Hope the report is correct.

—Chief of Police Montgomery, on Tuesday, May 27, arrested a man named Michael Casey, who is wanted in Clearfield on suspicion of being implicated in the McGahey fire at Three Runs, that county, some time ago.

—In recording one of the accidents which occurred to E. J. Swavely on a recent occasion we should have said he fell through the meshes of the hammock instead of from it. It is easily understood how the accident could occur in the first mentioned manner.

—Mr. and Mrs. John Ardell are moving into their elegant new residence on East Linn street. The exterior of the residence is quite handsome and imposing and we are informed that the interior is beautifully finished in the highest style of the woodworkers' and painters' art.

—Superintendent Wolf conducted the teachers' examinations on Saturday in the public school building. He has the happy faculty of forming questions which are at once easily understood, will show the applicant's fund of general information and also make the dull routine of examination quite interesting.

—Messrs. D. M. Glenn and J. C. Harper are engaging in a friendly contest for an elegant $35 gold-headed cane which is now on exhibition in Frank Blair's jewelry store. The contest is for the benefit of the Evangelical Association which worships in Valentines' Ironworks church. They are popular gentleman and the church will be financially benefited

—A barn owned by Mr. Charles Beck and located near the Centre-Clinton line in the vicinity of Clintondale, was struck by lightning on Sunday afternoon and set on fire. It was completely burned to the ground and its entire contents destroyed. A valuable horse and several heads of cattle were burned. Mr. Beck is the father of Mr. Henry Beck, of this place. The loss is quite heavy.

—J. I. Emery, the colored base ball pitcher who played with the Association nine in the game on Friday morning, showed that he is an excellent pitcher as well as a good general player. He understands the game thoroughly, is perfectly cool and self-possessed on the ball field, and in Friday's game was a great help to the Association nine in other positions as well as in the pitcher's box.

—Acceptances of invitations to the Logan Hose Company picnic to be held on July 4 are being received numerously. The Paxon Steam Fire Engine Company, of Harrisburg, have signified their intention to be present with 60 men and a band of 28 pieces. The Logan Hose Company of Altoona will also come with a band of 22 pieces. Private information states that the Reliance Hose Company of Philipsburg will also accept the invitation although it has not yet been acted upon in a regular meeting.

—We are requested to state that no admission fee will be charged to the High school entertainment in Humes' Hall on Friday evening, June 6. Of course, Mr. Fortney's speech will be worth any amount of money, but none will be asked. The portions of the commencement exercises given by the pupils will be worth any dollar entertainment ever heard, but all will be as free as air and much freer than water. This explanation is made because some individuals conceived the erroneous idea that to attend this gathering would impoverish them.

Mr. James McGahey and the Excitement He Caused.

The ferment of excitement into which the above named gentleman has plunged Bellefonte during the past few days is ended. Mr. McGahey, be it known, is a resident of Clearfield Co. Some time ago a building located in Three Runs, Clearfield Co., and owned by Mr. McG. was burned to the ground. In due course of time the insurance company turned over to him the amount of insurance which existed on the property. But there were subsequent developments and one Ed. A. Goodfellow, a well known resident of Clearfield, was deputized to arrest Mr. McGahey on a charge relating to the burning of the property. Mr. Goodfellow followed McGahey to Snow Shoe. But as the latter happened to come to Bellefonte he was arrested here by Sheriff Dunkle, and hither Mr. Goodfellow came last Thursday morning. The prisoner demanded a hearing, which was accorded him before 'Squire Rankin.

J. L. Spangler, Esq., appeared for the defendant and District Attorney Heinle represented the prosecution, ex-Judge Orvis the prosecution's special counsel being in Clearfield. Judge Rankin consulted the highest legal counsel at command in so important a case, including Gen. Jas. A. Beaver, A. O. Furst, Esq., and President Judge Adam Hoy. Mr. McGahey was discharged after giving bail in the sum of $2,000 to appear at Court. His bail, Mr. Adolf. Loeb, is as good as gold.

Thinking that the first act in this drama was concluded, the released prisoner sauntered to the Bush House and Mr. Goodfellow made use of the telephone to consult the special counsel in that place. The advice he received was "Arrest McGahey and bring him to Clearfield?" Mr. Goodfellow secured two good steeds from the Larimer Brothers and drove in a commodious vehicle to the front of the Bush House. Securing the assistance of Capt. Montgomery, he sauntered into the hotel and requested McGahey to accompany him to the sidewalk. McGahey did not express any desire to take a ride at that particular time, but nevertheless he was suddenly lifted by four strong arms into the vehicle and driven away at a 2:10 pace. There were surprised spectators standing near. Even J. L. Spangler, Esq., caught sight of them as they sped over the hills and far away. The sight caused him to resort to the telephone. All the way along between Bellefonte and Philipsburg Mr. Spangler was kept aware of their whereabouts. He engaged Captain Olewine to intercept the escaping parties at Philipsburg, and he and Col. D. H. Hastings started on the 5 p. m. train to that place. Quite soon the intelligence came that the entire party had given themselves into the charge of Capt. Olewine and he was instructed to detain them until the arrival of Spangler and Hastings, these gentlemen meeting Sheriff Dunkle in Tyrone, procuring a warrant and telegraphing it entire to Philipsburg. The pursuing party appeared in Philipsburg at 10 p. m. and soon started to Clearfield with McGahey. But before they had passed over many miles on the way there McGahey was arrested on a new warrant of some sort, and all proceeded to Clearfield. There they created a sensation. McGahey was incarcerated in durance vile until a writ of habeas corpus released him. Judge Krebs presided at the hearing, and discharged McGahey on the original bail.

Capt. Montgomery arrived home on Friday and was interviewed by many citizens. J. L. Spangler, Esq., arrived home on Saturday and also found many listeners eager to learn the cold facts.

Captain Montgomery informs us that Ed. Goodfellow showed him a telegraphic dispatch ordering the arrest of McGahey, which induced him to aid the former officer. The charge upon which he and Goodfellow were arrested was for assault and battery and kidnapping McGahey. They were each put under $1000 bail to appear at Court.

—It will be with sorrow that many in this county will learn the sad intelligence of the death of Miss Annie E. Naginy, youngest daughter of Charles Naginy of near Milroy. This event, we understand, occurred on the 21st of May, through consumption. The deceased was well known in this county, being a niece of the late Richard Conley. She was a most estimable young lady. Her intelligence, modesty and purity of character commended her to the affection and esteem of all. Cut down on the threshold of womanhood, she leaves to her friends and acquaintances a sweet memory of one whose short life was well spent in usefulness and Christian endeavor. To her bereaved relatives we extend our deep sympathy.

A Charming Entertainment.

The receipt on Wednesday of an invitation to attend the closing exercises of the intermediate and primary schools, which occurred in the school house this morning, induced us to hasten to that place at the hour designated (9.30 o'clock) and listen to as much of the exercises as our limited time would permit. We found the second floor of the school house converted into one room which was already thronged with people including all the pupils and a large number of visitors. Among the visitors we noticed a fair representation of school directors, a few former teachers, Superintendent Wolf and many parents and other relatives of teachers and pupils. The large school room was arranged with a platform about a foot high and covered with carpet in the centre. There were beautiful decorations of green intermingled with flowers on the upright supports. A handsome organ had been put in the room and other desirable additions made for the occasion. These preparations showed great care and some expense on the part of the teachers; but when the exercises began the excellent manner in which they were rendered showed that the pupils had made truly wonderful preparation.

To the time of music, the teachers marshalled the airy, graceful children to their proper seats. With absolute correctness they repeated, in concert, portions of the Psalms, and with bowed heads and clasped hands intoned the Lord's Prayer. Then four of the younger pupils stepped on the platform and repeated stanzas of welcome. When we departed quite a long but very interesting fairy scene was taking place, in which seven or eight little girls attired in white sang in unison the praises of their queen, who wore a crown of flowers on her head. Several tardy pupils happened to come among them, each of whom received reproof in musical dialogue. The solo parts were borne by Ella Twitmire and Willis Williams, who have beautiful voices.

The portion of the exercises which we witnessed proved a great surprise from the fact that there was not a single hitch in it. All moved along in a perfect manner, and our only regret was that we were unable to witness all of the entertainment. The teachers and pupils of the intermediate and primary schools deserve infinite credit for the progress they have made and their efforts to demonstrate that fact to the public.

Since the conclusion of the exercises we have obtained the following in regard to the Cantata which was rendered by the children. Ella Twitmire was Queen, Lizzie Youlton personated the punctual scholar, Willis Williams the tardy scholar, Mamie Sourbeck the persevering scholar, Rich. McClain the quarrelsome scholar, and Katie Furey and Maud Harper sang the "Naughty Boy Song." Aurora Moore, the generous scholar, was introduced by Fred Meek, Mamie Fox and Anna Brown. Percy Blackford, the selfish scholar, was introduced by Lizzie Sanders, Grace Lukenbach and Sallie Baum. The Cantata was written for older persons, which makes the children's performance the more remarkable. Eddie Valentine, son of Mr. Bond Valentine, delivered a temperance speech in an excellent manner.

Prof. Wolf made a very interesting speech in presenting Prof. Lieb, on behalf of the scholars, a beautifully bound volume of Scott's Poetical Works, which proved an agreeable surprise to that gentleman. A card accompanying the book contained the following inscription:

"To Principal D. M. Leib, from the upstairs schools, for a testimonial of their esteem and appreciation of his courtesy, kindness and unwearied zeal."

Two Important Events.

Only two events of great importance occurred on Thursday. We summarize them as follows:

The Greenback National Convention in Indianapolis, Ind., nominated Gen. B. F. Butler of Massachusetts, for President, and General A. N. West of Mississippi for Vice President. The resolutions denounce everything and advocate an amendment to the Constitution in favor of suffrage regardless of sex.

Six Hungarians and one Swede were buried beneath an immense mass of earth and rocks while working in a tunnel near Sumerset on the South Pennsylvania Railroad. It was about 5 o'clock Wednesday evening when the accident occurred and the stones and rocks were not entirely removed until Thursday morning, when all the men were found to be dead.

—Mrs. Stover, wife of George W. Stover, of Millheim, died on Saturday, May 24, after a lingering illness. Deceased was a daughter of John Harper of near Centre Hall.

Memorial Day Mention.

The temperature was so cold that white dresses looked frightened.

The Association Nine of Bellefonte and the State College club played a game of base ball on the grounds of the former in the morning in the presence of a large number of spectators. It resulted as we had expected; indeed, we have not heard any one express surprise. The score was 18 to 10 in favor of the College club. They are splendid players; the pitcher, Robert Mann, and the catcher, Mr. Chesney, being very superior. They have the advantage of constant practice while we believe this was the first time the Association Nine ever played together. Nevertheless, the Association Nine did well and demonstrated conclusively that with practice they can give the very best clubs a close game.

Flowers—white, pink and scarlet—were profuse and beautiful.

The parade was one of the finest ever seen in Bellefonte on such an occasion. The line was composed as follows:

Zion Band,
Company B, N. G.,
State College Cadets,
Veterans of Gregg Post,
Logan Hose Company,
Pleasant Gap Band,
Undine Hose Company.

Under Lieut. Leyden the State College Cadets marched splendidly. They step light and gracefully and seem to enjoy the manly exercise.

The ceremony of decorating four graves in the cemetery was first performed in the usual impressive manner. Music was rendered by a choir composed largely of the teachers in the public schools. After these exercises were ended all the graves were decorated and the parade resumed the line of march to the Diamond, committees visiting the other cemeteries.

Some of the graves were decorated superbly. We noticed especially the grave of Harvey Lingle and those of Wm. P. Wilson, Benner Wilson and Frank Wilson.

The hose companies never looked finer than they did on Friday.

The oration by Rev. M. K. Foster in the Court House in the evening was listened to and enjoyed by a large audience.

Sylvester Ray and W. F. Reeder, Esqs., orated in the Advent church, Milesburg, and the audience were well pleased.

Hon. John B. Linn and D. S. Keller, Esq., went early in the day in the direction of Farmer's Mills.

A message from the State College next morning states that the Cadets in Bellefonte on Friday consisted of only a detachment, and if all had taken part in the parade their appearance would have been much finer.

Commencement of Pennsylvania State College.

The commencement exercises at State College will begin on Sunday, June 22, and continue until the evening of Thursday, June 26. We publish the programme below:

1. Sunday, June 22.—3 o'clock p. m., Baccalaureate Sermon, by the Rev. Wm. Hayes Ward, D.D., editor of the New York Independent.

—The Advent congregation which worships in Gentzel's church near Bellefonte, own a very fine new organ, which they purchased a short time ago. It is in perfect condition and has aroused their musical enthusiasm to such an extent that they have organized one of the finest choirs in this part of the country and sing with that excellence and artistic effect which careful training only can produce.

—The frame work of Mr. Wetzel's barn, on the old Musser farm near town, was raised last Wednesday.

—Lock Havenites are sighing in vain for a nail factory.

Personal Pencilings.

Ellis Orvis now spends most of his time surveying.

Fred Kurtz of Centre Hall killed a 6 foot black snake last week.

Rev. John Hewitt arrived home from Erie Saturday morning.

Mr. P. Gray Meek was visible in Tyrone on Wednesday evening.

Rev. Scott Wilson delivered the Memorial Day oration in Tyrone.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Schroyer of Milton drove to Bellefonte on Friday, arriving here during the afternoon.

Miss Jennie Ardell, of Julian, this county, is the guest of her friend, Mrs. James Munson, of Philipsburg.

Ex-Judge Orvis dispensed his imposing presence among the legal lights of Tyrone on Monday, May 26.

Mr. George Crosthwaite, telegraph operator at Pine Station, spent part of Tuesday, May 27, in Bellefonte

Miss Alice S. Bloom, of Curwensville, Clearfield county, is visiting her relatives, the Dales, in College township.

Hon. L. A. Mackey, of Lock Haven, was a guest at that popular big hotel, the Bush House, on Tuesday morning of last week.

Mr. George Bible recited two selections of an appropriate character during the Memorial services in the Court House Friday evening.

Judge Hoy announces that he has not concluded to withdraw from the contest for the Democratic judicial nomination of this, 49th, district.

Ex-Governor Curtin, our brilliant representative in Congress, arrived in Bellefonte on Saturday and is still tarrying at his beautiful home in this place.

Misses Kate Zimmerman and Gertie Solt, who are among the fair residents of Zion, this county, spent Saturday and Sunday with the family of Mr. Brooks at Boiling Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. Clem. Dale were in Norfolk, Va., on Tuesday, May 27. They reached Bellefonte Wednesday evening and are now receiving the congratulations of their friends.

Misses Carrie Humes and Lizzie Shortlidge, two of the teachers in the public schools, will on Monday begin a select school in the public school building, to continue six weeks.

Prof. Wolf says that a cold snap always comes when the flowers called "snow balls" are blossoming. It is equally certain that the temperature is also frigid when the snow balls which are not flowers and don't blossom are here.

Miss Platt, a graduate of Cooper Institute, New York, arrived in town on Tuesday, May 27, and will give instructions in drawing to a limited number of pupils. Her qualifications are of the highest order. She may be found at the residence of Mr. James Sommerville.

Mrs. Robert Jackson and Mrs. A. C. Moyer, of Osceola, arrived in Bellefonte last week and are guests at the home of Mrs. Moyer's aunt, Miss Maggie Pruner, of this place. Mrs. Moyer was formerly Miss Clara Pruner and her numerous friends here will be delighted to meeet her. She will remain about two weeks.

We are informed that Miss Constance Richard has been home several days although we had not the pleasure of seeing her until Friday. Her visit in Philadelphia was exceedingly pleasant and was prolonged through about all the past winter. The musical and social circles of Bellefonte will gladly hail her return.

Major Wm. F. Reynolds has commenced digging for the foundation of his new residence to be erected on the vacant lot recently purchased by him from John Ardell, Jr. An effort will be made to preserve the beautiful sod which has been taken from the lawn. The house formerly occupied by Mr. Ardell has not yet been torn down.

Mrs. John S. Glenn, of Chicago, last week visited her relatives in this place. She is well acquainted in this community, having once resided here and also in Milesburg. At the time of the Chicago fire Mr. and Mrs. Glenn lived in that city and were among the sufferers by that disastrous event. They removed to Harrisburg, Pa., and are now again living in Chicago.

Mr. Juston Holz, who is an agent for A. Janowitzer, Vienna Novelties, Vienna, Austria, is visiting his cousin, Mr. H. Holz, of Joseph Brothers store, in this place. This is Mr. Holz's first visit to America. Of course, his business takes him only to the large cities, the presence of his cousin in Bellefonte attracting him hither. He has been in this country only about three weeks, but can speak English quite well. He is intelligent and agreeable and conversation with him impresses one very favorably as to the character of the inhabitants of the Austrian capital.

A Frightful Runaway.

On Sunday morning a frightful runaway occurred along the Roopsburg road near the planing mill pond. A gentleman and lady, whose names we have not learned, were coming from their homes near Houserville to Milesburg. When near Mr. Deschner's residence the horse frightened and attempted to scale the stone steps leading to Mr. Deschner's premises. The lady leaped from the vehicle and in doing so fell, striking her right temple on the stone steps. Her temple was considerably bruised and she was much frightened, but her injuries were not serious. The gentleman held to the lines and was dragged from the steps as far as the old Bellefonte Press Company printing office where the animal plunged down the hill toward the creek. Here the young man released his hold of the lines and some one caught the horse. The lady was assisted into the residence of Mr. Fusser near by where her head was bathed. The young man's clothes were torn but he was uninjured. As the buggy was not damaged they returned to Houserville as soon as the horse was sufficiently quiet to be controlled. It was a frightful affair and the escape from serious injury or death seems to be miraculous.

—Unionville was the scene of a great sensation on Sunday and Monday. About a week ago a man and woman arrived in that place from Princeton county, West Virginia, and registered at the hotel as Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Smith, representing themselves as husband and wife. They had in the meanwhile commenced housekeeping and Mr. Smith expected to engage in the occupation of manufacturing shoes for the people of that town. But late Sunday evening a Mr. Shafer, also from West Virginia, arrived upon the scene and said that he was the lawful husband of the so-called Mrs. S. As soon as possible the constable went to arrest Mr. and Mrs. Smith and had them in charge. Mr. Smith asked to be permitted to go to an upstairs room to get something which he had left behind. The request was granted, but as soon as Mr. S. reached a convenient window he leaped forth into the darkness and has not since been heard from. Mr. Shaffer tried to make some arrangement regarding property that his runaway wife owns in West Virginia, but she refused to agree to his terms, so he told the constable to take her to the Centre county jail. The Constable was on his way here on Monday with her in charge but before they had proceeded far the husband relented and gave a Mr. Peters $5 to go after them and bring his wife back again. There the sensation now rests. What turn this startling series of events will take in future we cannot state.

—A grand ball was given by the Undine Hose Company in their hose house on Thursday evening. About 70 couples were in attendance and excellent music was rendered by competent musicians. The commodious room on the first floor was used for dancing and was found to be well suited for the purpose. The ceiling of this room has recently been neatly kalsomined, and the general affect is beautiful. The hall on the second floor in which the business meetings of the company are held was utilized as a ladies' reception room. The strictest propriety and decorum were observed in all the pleasures of the evening and not one unwelcome occurrence marred the general enjoyment. In view of the success of this "social hop," others are expected to follow in the near future.

Written for the DAILY NEWS.

To E. F., With a Rose.

O come to the window! The first flush of dawning
Creeps up, and the stillness which brooded so late
Is disturbed by the wood-birds which pipe a "Good morning"
To those in the white blossomed pear at your gate.

The moon is sinking, the stars, too, take warning,
They tremble and fly from their master, their fate!

The rose 'neath your window is sighing and smiling,
The night has been long without sunshine and you,
But faint in the East a sweet promise beguiling
Brings hope to the rose and to me, love, anew:
O come to the window, reward us, my darling,
For rare are May roses, and lovers so true!

May, 1884. E. BOLF.

—Did you freeze on the Fair Ground on Friday morning?
